Monmouth voters meet candidates

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

Monmouth voters had the chance to put some faces to the names that are popping up on election signs across the county and will appear on their ballots on November 14.

About 70 people attended the municipality's all-candidates meeting at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre on Thursday night.

Monmouth reeve Keith Tallman is hoping to extend his 16-year hold on the reeve's chair by at least three more years and is being challenged by Harcourt resident Harry Dale.

As reeve, Wilberforce resident Tallman said he has helped Monmouth council stick to its budget "fairly well" over the past 16 years.

Over the past two years, council has been able to keep a freeze on tax hikes and hopes to continue to do so, he said.

"Raising taxes would be the wrong thing to do at this time," Tallman told the audience. "Our residents cannot afford to pay more at this time."

Tallman said he has a very strong feeling for the community and wants to see it continue to grow.

"I'd like to see it develop further, but only if it can stay within budget constraints."

In addition to his seat on council, Tallman sits on the boards of the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pineridge Medical Unit and the Children's Aid Society.

Dale, who owns and operates the All-Star Cafe in Wilberforce, is running against Tallman for the reeve's chair. In the 1991 election he was one of six people making a bid for a seat on council, but was unsuccessful.

Previously a resident of Toronto, Dale moved to Harcourt in 1988 after selling his business, National Electronics Service Association. The company, which is still in operation, has 150 employees and 16 locations across the country, he said.

Dale said he wants to see the township "change for the better," provided that the tax rate could be kept at the same level. He said he would like to see sidewalks installed in some areas of Wilberforce and playground equipment provided for children.

"These are things that we can do without raising taxes," he said.

Meet the candidates before election day

As you can tell from the profusion of campaign signs, we're in the midst of municipal elections. If you want to put some faces and opinions to some of the names, you should attend one of the upcoming all-candidates meetings:

- Snowdon: October 26 at the council chambers in Gelert, 7 p.m.
- Anson, Hindon and Minden: October 27 at Archie Stouffer Elementary School, 7 p.m.. Sponsored by the Haliburton and District Real Estate Board and the Minden Times
- Stanhope: October 29 at the Stanhope Firefighters Hall, 7 p.m..
- Dysart et al: November 1 at the Haliburton Legion, 7:30 p.m., council candidates only. (Trustee candidates can attend but there's a separate meeting for them.) Please note the change in date and location. The meeting is sponsored by the Haliburton and District Real Estate Board and the Haliburton County Echo
- Dysart et al: November 3 at St. George's Church, 7:30 p.m., trustee candidates only. Sponsored by the Victoria Street School Parents Advisory Committee
- Bicroft: November 3 at the Cardiff Community Centre, 7 p.m.

ALL TOGETHER NOW: Mary Packard, Dorothy Robertson, Bette Mavor and Mimi Carson teach the children at WeeCare how to do Scottish Country Dancing as part of the Haliburton daycare centre's celebration of Week of the Child. Parents and grandparents shared their talents with the children in various events throughout the week.

Four schools share hi-tech shipment of computers rebuilt and donated by little-known service group

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

Students at four local schools now have greater access to computers, thanks to the efforts of a large but relatively unknown service group.

The Telephone Pioneers, a volunteer organization made up of Bell employees, delivered 30 computers to the Haliburton County Board of Education on Wednesday afternoon.

And the high-tech shipment didn't cost the school board a penny.

The Telephone Pioneers has overhauled and upgraded hundreds of old computers no longer wanted by the government and Bell so that they can be used by school kids, said Brian Haire, president of the organization's Lindsay-Haliburton branch.

Members of the group donate all of the time and labour that goes into refurbishing the equipment.

"These are like a gift from heaven because they are computers that we really didn't expect to get," said superintendent of education Dale Robinson. Robinson, board chairman Lloyd Griffiths and students from each of the schools which have received the computers accepted them from members of the Telephone Pioneers at the Bell centre in Haliburton on Wednesday.

About half of the computers will be set up at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School and the remainder have been divided among J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School, Archie Stouffer Elementary School and Cardiff Public School.

Those schools were chosen as recipients because the board wants children in Grade 7 and above to use the computers, said Robinson.

The board brought IBM computer equipment into its Grade 3 classrooms this fall as a pilot project and hopes eventually to expand the program from Kindergarten all the way through Grade 6.

To date, the Telephone Pioneers has donated about 500 "new" computers to school boards across Ontario and Quebec. They were assembled from the remains of old ones, said Haire.

School boards from the two provinces can apply for the service group's computers as often as they wish, he said, but it is up to the Telephone Pioneers to determine where the computers would be best used.

Robinson said Haliburton applied for its computers about a year ago and only learned last month that its application had been approved.

The Lindsay-Haliburton branch of the Telephone Pioneers has about 200 members, said Haire.

"We're actually the largest service group in North America, though not too many people have heard of us."

SPECIAL DELIVERY: Students Tiffany Orpana, Laura Evans and James Bonello help Brian Haire, president of the Lindsay-Haliburton chapter of the Telephone Pioneers unload a cargo of computers. The service group donated 30 rebuilt computers to four Haliburton County schools.

Fairer forest tax fight gains county's support

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

County council supports local forest owners in their quest for a fairer property tax system, but at least one councillor wonders if anything can be done to get the province to listen.

"You've gone through another study giving us details that are very interesting," Sherborne et al Deputy-reeve Hans Liebmann told Peter Schleifenbaum and Gary Bull at Wednesday's county council meeting. "But it seems to me it's a useless thing - you can't get to the parties who make the decisions. What else can we do as individuals and groups? Does the study make a difference? Will a change in government make a difference?"

Schleifenbaum is manager of Haliburton Forest and Wildlife Reserve, which has been leading the fight against the province's elimination of the Managed Forest Tax Rebate program. The program addressed an inequity between farmers and forest owners. Forest owners are taxed as if the land was going to be developed whereas farmers are taxed on their land's yield, not its property value. With the discontinued program, if landowners agreed to manage their forests using Ministry of Natural Resources guidelines, they received a rebate in property taxes. Without that rebate, there is a fear they will have to cut more trees than is environmentally sustainable.

Schleifenbaum is also a member of the Haliburton Forest Owners Association, which hired Bull to do a study of the economic importance of forests. The study is to back up the foresters' claim about the importance of their plight. Bull released his study a few weeks ago and made a presentation to council on Wednesday.

The study finds that forestry and tourism are equal players in the Highlands' economy. As well, most activities are linked to the forests beauty and recreational opportunities.

Bull supports the forest owners' fight to be taxed fairly, saying foresters and farmers should be on an equal playing field.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Bern Berry worried who would pick up the slack if forest owners had a reduction in property taxes. Bull said "I think we can generate more tax through an improved economy."

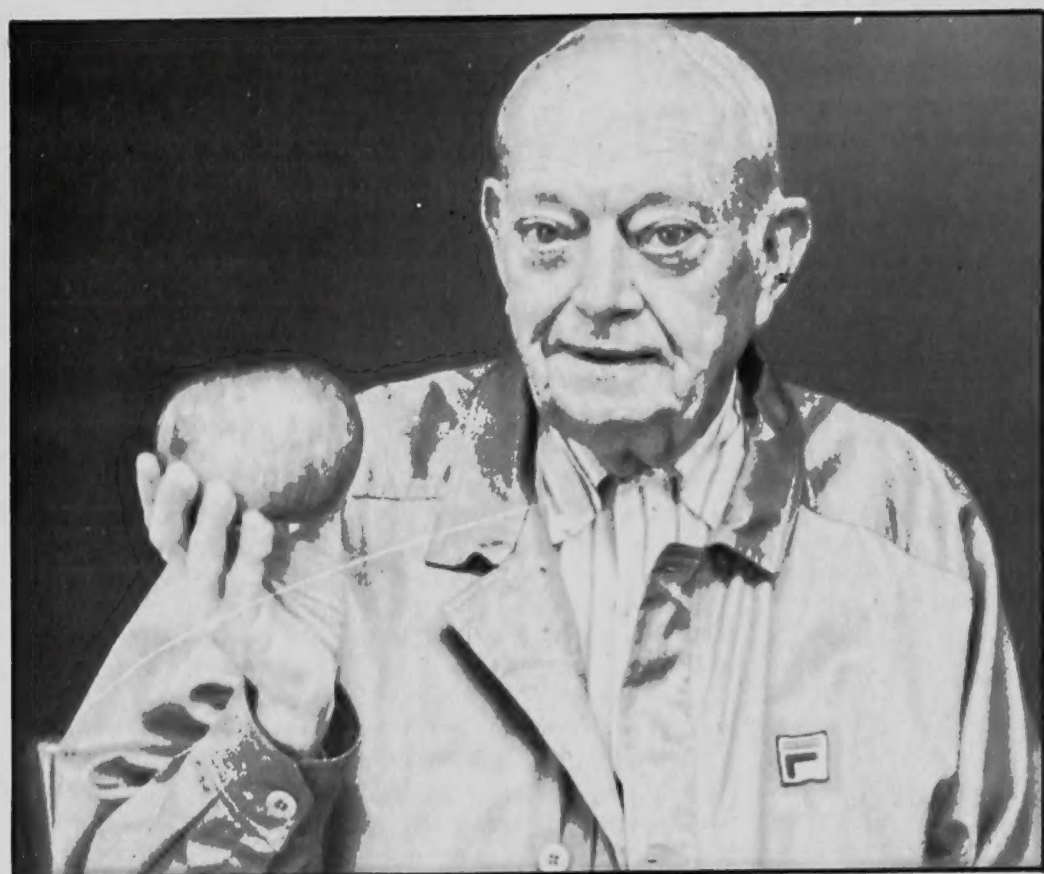

He knows of one mill owner who can't make plans for future expansion because she fears that if forest owners over-cut in order to pay for property taxes, there won't be a sufficient supply of trees in 10 years.

Sherborne et al Reeve Ross Rabjohn said the main question is "do you want sustainable forests?" He believes it's vital not to over-harvest forests and agrees that foresters should be taxed the same way farmers are. "It makes no difference whether I grow carrots or trees."

Snowdon Reeve George Simmons said "it's our forests and water that attract people" and he doesn't want the forests to be harmed because they have an aesthetic value as well as a monetary one.

Here, There and Everywhere...

Apple of his eye

Ken Smith of Minden displays a rare apple grown on his property. Known as a "Wolf River", this one measured four inches across the top and weighed three-quarters of a pound.

There may be no place like home, but it's always nicer to say that after you've been away on a trip. In early October, local senior citizens travelled to Fort Erie on a three-day bus trip with Haliburton County Home Support Services. Because this was the first trip co-ordinated by St. Catharines' PBB Travel Services in co-operation with the Economic Development Corporation, the seniors got their picture in the Fort Erie Times Review. The trip included tours of Old Fort Erie and a battle site of the War of 1812, as well as Niagara on the Lake. Organizer Brenda Styger is quoted as saying "they loved the food and had a lot of fun. Fort Erie's first overnight bus tour was an overwhelming success."

Speaking of home, Dylan Michael O'Hara is eagerly awaited by his new family in Haliburton. The two-year-old boy is the new son of Michael and Becky O'Hara and brother of Katelyn. But before he arrives at the end of November, the O'Haras will have to make sure that Dylan knows exactly where his new home will be. Dylan was born on the small island of St. Vincent, just off the coast of Venezuela and when someone in St. Vincent tried to send some information to the O'Haras by courier, the courier office in St. Vincent said "Sorry, there is no such place as Haliburton!" How does it feel to know your village doesn't exist?

Haliburtonians always talk about the weather, so when a reporter dropped by Bank's Heritage Store on a rainy Wednesday afternoon, the conversation naturally turned to what was falling outside. Marlene Robinson, who works at the store, said she had been bowling the previous evening and the oldtimers told her if there was a thunderstorm on Wednesday, we'd have six more weeks without snow. Well, we hope people like snow because although the rain continued all day Wednesday, it wasn't accompanied by thunder and lightning. However, so far we've been lucky, with glorious autumn weather and not a flake of snow to be seen yet. Maybe this is our consolation for the spring snowstorm on May 26.

"Let's get creative," says Kim Cowen, who's organizing the Santa Claus parade in Haliburton. In preparation for the November 26 event, she's reminding people to start coming up with some ideas for floats. The theme is a really easy one - Christmas - to encourage as many people as possible to take part. For more information, please contact her at 457-3683.

In response to the reference to Alice in Wonderland in last week's editorial, a reader sent us these quotes from Lewis Carroll. They are wise words to remember, especially during elections...

- "When I use a word it means just what I choose it to mean, neither more nor less"
- "The question is whether you can make words mean so many different things"
- "The question is who is to be master, that is all"

The creators of the board game Countryfied got a little bit of a boost when Gar Lewis of CKCO television interviewed them for two shows on Friday evening. Paul Brown and family live in Haliburton and spent months perfecting the country and western music game. Countryfied is available in several local stores.

Congratulations to Terry and Norma Barnum, who celebrated their 45th anniversary at a surprise party held at their son's Redstone Lake cottage last Saturday. The Barnums were thrilled to see both of their sons, who are both with the OPP, one in Ottawa and one in Thunder Bay. About 30 family members and friends from Ottawa, Peterborough, Kingston, Thunder Bay, Keene, Minden and Haliburton came to help the Barnums celebrate. It was a real surprise for the Haliburton couple.

The third annual Christmas Craft Show and Flea Market is Dec. 3 and 4 at the Minden Community Centre. There are more than 70 vendors (with some spaces still available) and admission is a donation of a non-perishable food item or toy for the Christmas food drive. Call Sherry Hawkins at 286-6010 or Natalie Brady at 705-687-9305 for details.

On Thursday Oct. 20, Dave and Karen Nimigon, their son Chris and Chris's friend Jamie Luck went to watch cousin Steve Nimigon play in Peterborough. Steve was drafted by the Hartford Whalers this summer. He played one game but is going to play one more year of Junior hockey with the Niagara Falls Thunder. Steve sustained a bad leg injury last year and spent many months in the hospital. He put his skates back on in August but in Thursday's game he injured his ankle after only one period. The Peterborough Petes won the game 8-4. Steve and Chris, whose grandfathers were brothers, write and phone each other regularly, which has been great for both of them.

Condolences are extended to Doris Wheeler, whose husband George died of a massive heart attack on October 2, 1994 at his home in Springfield, Massachusetts. In the "old days", the Echo was printed at our offices on the main street of Haliburton and Mr. Wheeler was our printer, the man who knew how to operate every machine. He also had an eagle eye for grammatical and spelling mistakes, did some photography in his "spare" time and was bandmaster in Haliburton. He loved his work here at the Echo, his widow says, but when opportunity knocked in 1966 they left for Toronto, moving to Springfield four years later. Their daughter, Debbie Burton, lives in Newmarket. The Wheelers had been planning to move back to Haliburton two weeks ago and Mrs. Wheeler, who has relatives in the area, has decided to go ahead with their plans. She moved here last week.

This Saturday, Oct. 29, is IGA's Second Annual Hometown Trees Day. Staff of Dollo's IGA will be planting the white ash trees in memory of the Minden OPP Const. Eric Nystedt on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. on Minden Lake. In Haliburton, the Haliburton IGA will be giving away 100 trees to the first customers who ask for them.

Here are some of the upcoming events this week: At 2:30 on Tuesday, the senior Redmen soccer team vies for the Kawartha West championship at the high school; the Acting Health Services Board meets at the Haliburton Legion on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.; the Board of Education meets at the high school for its monthly board meeting on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.; Victoria Street School has its Hallowe'en parade through the streets of downtown Haliburton on Friday at 1:30 p.m.; there's a Hallowe'en Party for children at the Lloyd Watson Community Centre in Wilberforce on Friday from 7 to 9 p.m.; a fashion show to raise money for breast cancer research is at the Haliburton Legion at 7:30 p.m. on Friday; Staanworth Non-Profit Housing Corporation celebrates its 10th anniversary at Staanworth Court from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday; and Mary Wallace is holding a pumpkin carving course at Sir Sandford Fleming College on Sunday for 1 to 3 p.m. and you register in advance by calling 457-1680.

Fire damages Terrace Inn

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

A small fire damaged one of the Terrace Inn's rental cottages on Dark Lake near Wilberforce on Wednesday afternoon.

Seven members of the Monmouth Fire Department responded to the blaze at approximately 1:05 p.m. and extinguished it in about 45 minutes, said firefighter Max Walsh.

No one was injured in the fire.

The cottage was being rented by guests at the time of the blaze, but they were eating lunch in the main lodge when the fire broke out, said Walsh.

The fire may have been caused by a propane heater.

Magda Street, manager of the property, said the fire was contained to the kitchen area of the cottage and damaged the ceiling.

A fair amount of water damage was caused to the building as the fire was being put out, said Walsh.

Street praised the efforts of the volunteer firefighters, saying they responded to the fire quickly and had it under control before it could do any further damage to the cottage or the surrounding property.

Fight backed

The vast majority of forest owners don't want to cut down more trees than is environmentally wise, Schleifenbaum said. If they clear cut as a way of earning enough money to pay taxes, "it's a desperate decision - they don't see light at the end of the tunnel anymore. The worst scenario that could happen now (is if council) came down with a heavy thumb and said clearcutting is not allowed."

Schleifenbaum is against clear cutting and says in the long-term, it is less profitable than managing a property following sustainable growth practices. His concerns about clear-cutting were shared by Dysart et al Deputy-reeve Lloyd Leadbeater. "The forests support a wide variety of plants and animals and if you clearcut you change all that... It's important we retain the essence of the forest."

Auxiliary celebrates half century of dedicated service

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

Fifty years ago when the Ladies Auxiliary to Haliburton's branch of the Royal Canadian Legion was originally chartered, the Second World War was still raging overseas.

The 30 charter members of the organization were kept busy knitting sweaters and putting together food packages for people in battle-ravaged Europe.

Today, half a century later, some of the Auxiliary's duties may have changed, but its members are every bit as intent on providing assistance for those in need.

"Our motto is service, and this is what we try to do," explains life member Jan Shipley.

On Saturday night, Auxiliary members and their families, local politicians, Legion members and representatives from neighbouring Ladies Auxiliaries gathered at the legion hall to celebrate the group's upcoming 50th anniversary.

The Auxiliary was chartered on February 2, 1945, but the anniversary celebration was held over the weekend to avoid poor winter weather and to make certain that people who usually head south could attend the important event.

Among the special guests who were able to be part of the ceremony was Mae Wilson, who has been an Auxiliary member since its inception.

Edith Day and Betty Wise, who became members shortly after the Auxiliary was chartered, were also at the anniversary dinner.

All three of the women were presented with 50-year pins and floral arrangements prepared by their co-members.

Over the years, the Auxiliary has been able to adapt to many changes as they have arisen and still continues to grow, said Shipley.

But it hasn't always been easy. "One event, the burning down

"You've contributed a lot to our community and I think everyone should acknowledge that in our whole riding," MPP Chris Hodgson said of the women in the Ladies Auxiliary to Haliburton's branch of the Royal Canadian Legion. The Auxiliary celebrated its 50th anniversary on the weekend. Mae Wilson (right) was one of the charter members and was honoured for her many years of service, along with Betty Wise (centre) and Edith Day, who joined the group shortly after it was formed.

of the Legion hall in 1952, saw the spaghetti supper the ladies were cooking go up in smoke and become burnt offerings," she told the audience. "We've tried not to repeat this method of cooking."

The women have, however, tried out numerous other recipes. Catering for weddings, banquets and other events that are held at the spacious hall continues to be the Auxiliary's primary source of income.

Funds raised through these functions are donated to the Legion, community causes, scholarships, bursaries, charitable foundations and other organizations.

"We feel privileged in having been able to help our Legion branch grow from meager beginning to its present state, and continue to pledge our support to them," Shipley said.

Legion President Bill Juby said he was very proud of the friendship the Ladies Auxiliary and the legion share.

"Branch 129 ladies are in a class of their own," he said. "You've given the Legion tremendous support in the past and present, and I hope you continue to in the future."

Ladies Auxiliary President

Nina Chambers said the association's 50th anniversary could be used by members as a time to reflect on important roles they play in the county.

"I hope when we leave here this evening, we will leave with renewed conviction to serve the community," she said.

Phyllis Montemiglio, the Immediate Past President of the Ladies Auxiliary's Ontario Command, congratulated the Haliburton branch on its anniversary and passed on greetings from the organization's current provincial president, who could not attend the event.

"You've done very well," she said. "You've got a wonderful Auxiliary here. I've always been proud of my association with it."

"I'm overwhelmed at the honour of being here," said Margaret McLean, F-4 Zone Commander. "I know what it takes to keep a charter going and to even get your charter. I want to congratulate you on your first 50 years and hope you have 50 more."

"The Haliburton branch is fortunate to have such a caring and dedicated membership, not only to support the branch financially, but also for the extra care they put into all of the functions," said F-4 Zone Commander Sally Bonner.

Dysart et al Reeve Curry Bishop told the Auxiliary he regrets the fact that many of his family members who would likely have enjoyed being at the anniversary celebration have passed away.

"They would have been proud of what the Legion ladies have done," he said.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP Chris Hodgson presented the Auxiliary with a commemorative plaque signed by the premier.

"You've contributed a lot to our community and I think every one should acknowledge that in our whole riding," he said.

MP John O'Reilly also congratulated Auxiliary members on their anniversary and the efforts they have made to benefit the county. He presented a new Canadian flag to the Auxiliary on behalf of the federal government.

Following these tributes, 30-year member Laura Bannon was granted the honour of a life membership in the organization.

Now that they have celebrated their own anniversary, Auxiliary members will soon begin to prepare for a series of events in 1995 marking the 50th anniversary of the end of the Second World War.

Pettit, Hunter vying for lone Glamorgan school trustee seat

by STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Reporter

Describing himself as "not a politician by any stretch of the imagination," school board trustee Craig Pettit is vying for his third consecutive term representing Glamorgan.

He refuses to list any accomplishments he has been a part of during his last two terms and says simply "I just take my best shot and make decisions that I feel are right for the better of the system."

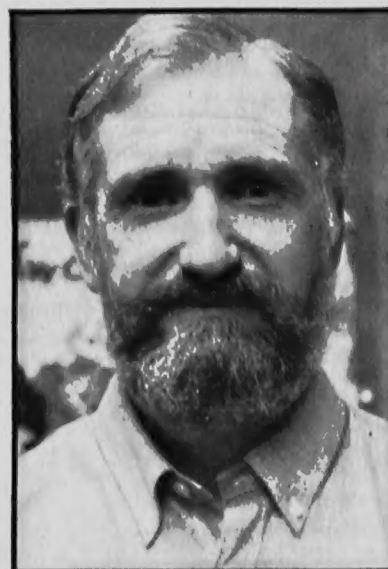

The main decisions that he believes will have to be made in the upcoming term are how to best cope with the continuous downloading by the federal and provincial governments and manage at the same time to keep up the quality of education.

"As it is now we are quite efficient with our spendings now and it will be difficult the next little while but we'll have to figure out a way to make ends meet without hurting the kids," he said.

He points to grant cuts and the increased number of programs like junior kindergarten as "being a real problem for us. We try to work out our system and all of a sudden the people (province) who are mandating things cut back what they are giving us...if they would just leave us alone and let us get our stuff in working order we'll be okay."

Pettit said he is running again because "I just have a genuine interest in kids," and adds that if re-elected he can be counted on to "stand up for a decision if it's justified or speak out against it if it's not."

As a Teacher's Assistant at the Gooderham Public School and volunteer, Shelly Hunter believes she has a strong grasp of Glamorgan parent's concerns and how they should be addressed.

Craig Pettit

If elected to the Board of Education, Hunter said that her main priorities will be to attempt to bring the basics back into the focus of the school curriculum and to put pressure on the government to increase funding for the number of teachers. "I wish we could have more teachers because for the number of students we have there are not enough," said the mother of twins. As an example she points to the situation at Gooderham where grade 6 and 5 classes are merged with half of the grade 4 class and "the teacher has to divide up her time."

Hunter would also like to see a more intense focus on the "three R's, like we use to." She said that too many students "are coming out of school not knowing the basics...not knowing their math or how to read."

Based on her frontline education experience, Hunter believes she can bring added insight to the position of trustee. "I know what the concerns are of parents and I have the knowledge of what's happening and if I can go in and help then I will," said Hunter.

Public input essential, reeve hopefuls agree

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Leadership and communication are goals of each of the three women hoping to become Glamorgan's next reeve.

"In order for council to run efficiently, continuity and a team effort is a priority," says incumbent Bev MacDuff. "If you don't have respect for one another to listen to the others' concerns, the council is fragmented and nothing gets accomplished."

"I'm a team player and I think the leader should be a team player," says Lorrie Saville, who's presently a councillor. "We should be working as a team and that's what has been bothering me - we haven't been."

"I have visions and there are people in the community who have ideas who need someone to work with them to bring them forward," says Elva Bates, who retired as Glamorgan's clerk-treasurer last December after working almost 27 years for the municipality. "I'm not an autocratic person, I'm a teamworker."

All three of them want more communication between council and ratepayers, and also between the permanent and seasonal residents.

MacDuff favours a public meeting in October to discuss the upcoming budget deliberations, and also a meeting in the summer so people can bring their ideas and concerns to the table. "We'll take everyone's ideas, put them on a list and ask which of these is a priority, do a cost analysis and time frame. Let's plan. It's setting out, whether it be a five-year or a three-year plan, what direction the council will go."

Saville says "We should have summer open meetings and have people from the town and the cottages and see if we can get rid of the we/them," says Saville, who also wants a five-year plan. She cottaged in the township from 1963 until she and her husband moved permanently to the cottage in 1989. In the 1991 election, most of her support came from cottagers, who were upset at council for implementing Market Value Assessment without public consultation.

"I don't want anyone to feel discarded," says Saville, who gets angry every time she hears a cottager being referred to as a tourist. "I'll never be considered a local, ever, which is unfortunate because I do have the community at heart."

Last year, Saville quit the recreation committee because she felt some local residents were avoiding the events because of her. Asked if this would still be a problem if elected reeve, she says "hopefully by being reeve I may overcome some of the problems. We should talk with different groups and have open meetings... I don't know how you get over it. With communication maybe we can get over the we/they bit. I don't like it."

Bates suggests working more closely with the cottage associations. "Let's find out what they want and see if it's doable and work towards it," she says.

But communication is also essential behind the scenes. In her years with the municipality, she has developed many contacts both within and outside Glamorgan. By working with these people and inviting their expertise, she thinks she can help Glamorgan move ahead. For instance, she's talked to someone who could help bring more training opportunities into the community and as reeve, she'd be able to see it through.

As well, residents have some ideas of their own about improving the local economy. A group of investors have purchased the former Mountainview property. "They need help to develop it into something that's agreeable to neighbours and viable for them."

The three also agree that some county-wide restructuring is needed because it's getting harder and harder for small municipalities to cope with all the responsibilities which are being down-loaded by the province.

"Restructuring is inevitable," Bates says, adding that when the county was first formed, Snowdon, Glamorgan, Cardiff and Monmouth were one municipality. By going back to a similar structure, Bates said the small municipalities would be able to help each other. For instance, Glamorgan's road crew is down to only two people so it would benefit from the help of municipalities with larger roads department. In return, perhaps Glamorgan has some area of expertise that would benefit the others. However, she is against a regional government with a new level of bureaucracy.

Saville says "we must look ahead and promote growth and efficiency. It may get rid of some political positions, but that's not a bad thing."

A fewer number of municipalities means fewer people on county council. "Seventeen people cannot make a decision. We've seen that."

Some people fear Glamorgan would lose its identity if amalgamated with neighbouring municipalities, but Saville said there could still be a ward system in which people from the Glamorgan ward vote for a Glamorgan representative.

MacDuff says that if amalgamation was too unpopular, then at least municipalities could share more services and take advantage of buying at bulk rates. "If everyone co-operates, everyone benefits."

On other issues, both Saville and Bates have concerns about the county's ability to afford a new county building. They feel supporting the hospital initiatives is more important. MacDuff says that in hindsight county council's decision to apply for infrastructure funding for the project may have been too hasty. The county building and hospitals "are both a priority but one is more of a priority than the other." The council may also have moved to quickly in giving over their council chambers to the social services department. "Things had to be done quick, quick. Maybe there should have been more planning."

MacDuff says she wanted to run again because there are several projects she wants to see through completion. After both Glamorgan and the Koshlong Lake association studied the use of various dumps, she hopes Glamorgan can purchase cards for Glamorgan residents who want to use Dysart and Snowdon's dumps. She also wants to work closely with Haliburton to see if Glamorgan can take advantage of some of its recycling programs. "You've got to give consideration to the people (who live in Glamorgan but are closer to other municipalities' landfill sites.) We wanted the study so we could say 'It's not working and here's what the people want.'"

Bates feels the municipality's finances have to be addressed. This past council has spent all the reserves, she says, making future planning very difficult. "The finances of the municipality are not in good shape."

As clerk-treasurer, she could only work within the boundaries established by council. As reeve, she believes more attention needs to be paid to budgets and reserve funds.

Once she decided to run for council at the prompting of others, Bates said she had to start looking at issues as a politician instead of an employee. And as a leader, she feels she will be able to accomplish a lot. "I have no grievances and I'm extremely pleased with the staff," she says.

Saville is also pleased with the talents clerk-treasurer Michael Rutter can bring to the municipality. "He's had a lot of training on new methods of running a business and with his guidance we'll do well."

Race for Glamorgan deputy-reeve is between councillor, political newcomer

by STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Reporter

The following are brief outlines of the campaign platforms of the two candidates running for Glamorgan deputy-reeve and the experience they believe they can offer to council.

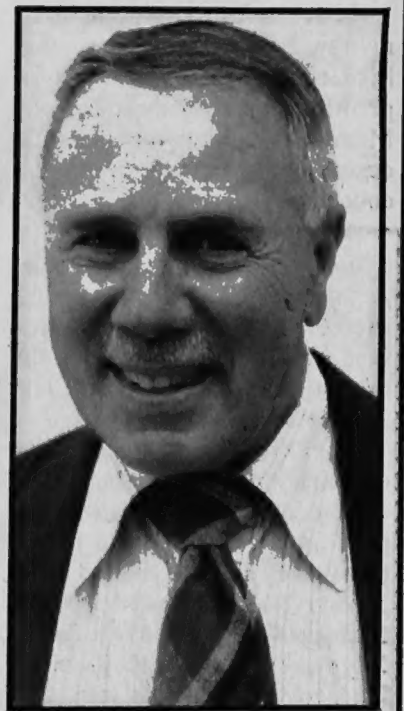

As a Glamorgan councillor the past three years, Bill Challis feels he's prepared and experienced enough to take the next step in local politics to deputy-reeve.

"I've got the time and energy and with the amount of experience I've had the last term I feel I have a lot to contribute to council and the community," he said, adding "I can help guide things smoothly."

Implementing a recycling plan to follow up the coming landfill expansion is something that he said should be examined in the near future as well as improving road safety.

"With the winters we have here we should really be taking care of our roads," he said. He'd like to push ahead with projects such as installing guard posts and straightening corners.

As deputy-reeve, he vows to "give a strong representation" at Haliburton County council and "to make sure Glamorgan, even though it is a small community, has a strong voice."

Challis also said he would like to see more attention given to seniors in the area, "and search out their needs and see what we can do to help them and identify their needs."

Running against Challis for the deputy-reeve position is former police officer and former faculty member of Durham College in Oshawa, Peter Needham.

Needham, while new to the community (he moved here three years ago), says he would like to "see the area grow, improve and prosper" through "intelligent" planning. He promises to focus on keeping taxes to a minimum through "competent and efficient decision making... because large tax increases hurt everyone."

Spending wisely on road safety and tackling environmental issues such as waste management, he believes, are vital to the community. He refuses, however, to offer any promises "for the sole purpose of obtaining votes," but says that if elected he will do his best to represent all members of the community, permanent or seasonal.

Roads, taxes and youth activities, key issues

by STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Reporter

The following are brief outlines of the campaign platforms and pertinent experience of the six candidates vying for three seats on Glamorgan council.

Though he is new to the community, Tom Brown believes that his 26 years of experience in problem solving as a former Metropolitan Toronto police officer will be a valuable asset as a councillor.

Tom Brown

Having been assigned to community relations as a liaison officer the last seven years until he retired and moved to Glamorgan permanently, Brown said he has "the ability to meet with people and address their concerns and work with them to solve their problems."

He has sat on the board of directors of the Maderia House, a Toronto halfway house for people charged with alcohol related offences as well as the Women's Habitat Committee (a home for abused women) and several other committees.

One issue he feels needs to be looked at in the coming years is increasing the number of police in the county. "We need more policemen here, there's not enough and we have to get members of the OPP to discuss this," he said.

Incumbent councillor Earl MacDuff says the greatest asset he can continue to bring to the table is "just to keep common sense on council."

A WWII veteran ranked Sgt., he wants to ensure that council runs efficiently and isn't bogged down with "speculation and stuff and people wasting time."

He said that there are no burning issues "in the immediate future that needs to be pushed through," although he would like to see the township become "stabilized and get a reserve fund built up to keep up with needed equipment and get the house in order."

He says that taxes have risen continuously for 25 years and last year's holding on municipal taxes must be continued. "People are overtaxed and I'd like to see them hold the line, though it's almost impossible."

Creating a more open process of decision-making should be a priority in the coming term, says

Ron Muirhead, also vying for one of the three councillor positions.

"There are some major issues council passes without the input of the taxpayers and I feel we need a more democratic process," he said.

With 37 years of experience working for the city of North York works department, Muirhead said he has a broad understanding of the ins and outs of town council. A year-round resident since 1975, he said "with my basic knowledge of municipal law, I can understand things a little better."

Ron Muirhead

He would like to see tax dollars more efficiently utilized. "I realize that taxes are a way of life but I feel we can better use them."

He would also like to address concerns about Ministry of Natural Resources access roads which are lacking in maintenance. He cited Wolf Lake Road as an example. "The taxpayers won't pay for it and the MNR won't and it's in a sad state of disrepair and somebody has got to do something about it. These areas need to be taken over by the township right away," he said.

Going against the grain in his campaign platform for councillor is Irondale resident Tom Vos, who is unimpressed with last year's zero tax increase despite carrying an operating deficit.

"As far as I'm concerned there is no excuse for council to come up with a zero tax increase when there is a debt to pay for," said the former Brampton resident who arrived here two years ago. "If there is a debt you have to pay for it and you have to raise taxes, a capital expenditure I can understand but not for an operating deficit."

Among other serious issues Vos would like to see looked at is the lack of recreational activities for the community's teenagers and children. "This is something that is close to my heart because something needs to be done for these children. There is nothing for them to do," he said adding, "there is a recreation committee but it hasn't come up with anything."

Vos also has grave concerns about the lack of an emergency address system, which he feels needs to be implemented. "If there is an emergency and you're at a cottage you can't be found. There is no good way of describing locations in the township and we need some kind of numbering system."

Prior to retiring, Vos worked as a technical instructor for Northern Telecom and was president of the Association For Community Living in Brampton.

Echoing candidate Tom Vos' deficit concerns is council hopeful Chuck Viner.

Viner said that with the deficit the new council will be left with and the "bad shape" reserve funds are in, people "who can look at balance sheets and budgets and who have business experience" will be needed in the next three years. He is also bracing for the worst with the federal government's planned social program, "which is going to really have a hard impact on the municipalities."

He says that while he'd like to see a hold put on tax increases, "it's not always realistic."

Other issues he believes the incoming council must concentrate on are implementing a recycling program for the community and resolving issues involving the fire department.

Viner now works with in the insurance industry and previously owned his own office supplies

Chuck Viner

Jean Heathcote

business in Oshawa before moving to Haliburton.

As a member of the Gooderham Recreation Committee, Jean Heathcote hopes to increase her input into township matters as an elected member of council.

The registered nurse, who works part-time at the Haliburton County Hospital and full-time at a local doctor's office, says she would like to see a recycling program launched in Glamorgan and "the lid kept on taxes," among other things.

As well, she says "there has always been poor communication between council and the community and while it has gotten better, I'd like to see it improve more."

Another main concern is the lack of activities for the local youth. As the mother of two young teenagers, she is disappointed in the limited number of activities for them to do and would like that to change, "rather then just see the kids hanging out in front of stores on a Saturday night or getting into trouble."

Heathcote has lived year-round in Glamorgan for six years and is a member of the fire department.

LONG-TERM CARE REFORM IN HALIBURTON, NORTHUMBERLAND, PETERBOROUGH AND VICTORIA COUNTIES

The Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge District Health Council (DHC) invites the general public to attend public meetings being held across the counties of Haliburton, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria throughout November.

Council's Long-Term Care Planning and Advisory Committees in each county will host the meetings to hear the views and suggestions of seniors, persons with disabilities, volunteers, employees and other interested and affected parties, on the creation of multi-service agencies (MSAs). Ministry of Health policy and recent legislation (Bill 173, the Long-Term Care Act, 1994) have put in motion the processes for changes to the community-based service system. The changes are aimed at maintaining seniors and disabled individuals in their own homes and communities and avoiding or delaying institutionalization.

The Public Meetings will ask for comment on issues such as how best to meet consumer needs for community and in-home supports, the geographic boundaries of the MSAs, how many governing boards there should be, the role of volunteers, and retaining agency identification as services integrate.

The following meetings will be held in Haliburton County:

November 8, 1994

Royal Canadian Legion, Haliburton

7:00 pm - 9:00 pm

November 9, 1994

Hyland Crest Senior Citizen's Home, Minden

Let the race begin

If this was England, the oddmakers would be having a field day. Never has interest in local politics ran so high. In Sherborne et al, 10 people are vying for three councillor positions. In Dysart et al, there are a total of 21 candidates for the various positions. Snowdon voters actually get to go to the polls, something they couldn't do three years ago when every candidate was acclaimed.

Despite the fact that three reeves have already been crowned, throughout the county there are several fascinating races. Many of them are too close to call. Democracy seems to be healthy in Haliburton County, which is good because the county is facing many challenges. We need the ideas generated during the campaign and the renewed commitment to the county's wellbeing. Elections remind politicians that they are beholden to the voters, not to the other people on council or the board of education. Every politician must stand alone when it's time to face the voters.

For the most part, campaigns have been run cleanly and fairly. There have been a few cheap shots - rarely are they made in public - as some people try to prove their own worth by denigrating their opponents, but such tactics tend to backfire. Voters here don't like personal vendettas and think if someone can't run a smooth campaign, that person won't be a smooth player on council either. Fire and brimstone don't garner many votes in the Highlands.

But there is still one big problem area - in some municipalities there is a noticeable division between the "cottage" vote and the "local" vote. (You can tell the cottage vote by the results of the Saturday advanced polls. Cottagers tend to come up to vote on a weekend, not on the actual poll day.)

In most areas, the "us versus them" attitude has been slowly and delicately whittled away. Over the years, a much more co-operative approach has developed. Cottagers realize they need strong, healthy local communities so they can purchase the goods and services they need and to spread the burden of taxes. Permanent residents realize cottagers are vital to the economic and social fabric of their communities. It's a symbiotic relationship, with both partners having equal status and equal talents to share.

Because everyone has a vested interest in how our municipalities are run, cottage associations have done much to ensure that their members make the effort to vote. Cottagers make up three-quarters of the county's population and deserve a voice in choosing their councils and board of education trustees. But if they are going to exercise their vote, they must do it responsibly. It does not serve democracy to have an association executive choose a slate of candidates and then encourage members to vote accordingly. That's not voting, that's an abdication of every individual's responsibility to take active interest in the election. How can you vote if you haven't done some research on the candidates or at least phoned them to ask them about issues close to your pocketbook? Just as the Echo will never endorse specific candidates, it is not fair for cottage associations - or any association for that matter - to do so. Let the voters decide... all on their own.

The Echo believes its election coverage began three years ago when the present councils and board took to the stage. We cover many council and board meetings as a way of letting ratepayers know what their elected officials are doing and saying. You can't judge a politician by his or her campaign speeches. You have to be aware of what he or she has done when confronted by a particular circumstance. You have to see whether their actions match their words. There's no quick fix, no easy way to know who to vote for. Democracy is a cornerstone of a free and independent country. But with all things of such magnitude, they carry with them a responsibility to treat them with respect.

Ski area a home away from home

To the Editor from our Readers

To the Editor:

I just read the article on the Sir Sam's 30th anniversary. I felt I had to write down my appreciation on paper for everyone to read. I really feel the "Welcome to our Home" attitude from the Bishops every time I go to Sir Sam's Ski Hill (and that is every chance my two boys get every holiday and weekend from open till close, and after school if they could!!) My children and I love to ski and it's so healthy for us. This time of year I wonder should they play hockey? But when the snow flies we are glad of our choice in skiing. If the Bishop family weren't so loving and kind I don't know if we would have become full fledged skiers.

We really enjoy spending most of our free time skiing. The atmosphere at Sir Sam's is definitely a fun and caring one. I have been reassured of this time and time again. Angela is a mom to hundreds of kids.

We are very fortunate to live in Eagle Lake to use this resource to the max. I wouldn't want to spend my winters any other way.

Who else do you know would open on their day off to accommodate a P.A. day?

Many thanks to the Bishop family. We are looking forward to spending another season at your family Ski Resort.

Rural residents want cable

To the Editor:

Concerning television signal delivery to rural Ontario - and to Haliburton County in particular.

Most of the people in Haliburton County and in rural Ontario do not get a television signal from TV Ontario. The province of Ontario largely pays for TV Ontario and every Ontario taxpayer helps pay for it. Why shouldn't the people of rural areas (not served by cable) be provided with a clear signal which they can pick up on their regular antenna?

Isn't it time that the excellent programming of TV Ontario be made available to rural Ontario and to Haliburton County in particular?

If YOU agree, contact your Reeve or Councillor your M.P.P. or write TV Ontario.

Ross Agnew,

To the Editor:

As a physiotherapist servicing Haliburton County, I have had the pleasure of instructing two groups of volunteers in "Wheelchair safety" during the past month - the volunteers at Haliburton County Home Support and those at Hyland Crest Home for the Aged. These people recognized the importance of the subject matter in terms of client safety; they showed interest, respect, and asked thoughtful questions.

We owe these volunteers our heartfelt thanks: they give generously of themselves and improve the quality of life for so many. The spirit of volunteerism is alive and well in Haliburton County!

Putting a smile on your shoes

DOWN
SHARON LYNCH

LOUISE WOULD NEVER HAVE thought she would enjoy walking through city streets again. The first forty years of life spent in an urban setting had seemed more than enough. But today was different.

They had been walking for almost an hour now, weaving their way through multi-coloured crowds, through the over-stimulation of department stores, street musicians and sidewalk evangelists. The warm Saturday afternoon sunshine of late fall felt surprisingly fresh as Louise and her daughter made their way toward old city hall. Street cars rattled along tracks, cabs honked their way through intersections and for a moment Louise closed her eyes and imagined she was nine years old and hanging on to her mother's hand. The sounds were the same.

But it wasn't her mother beside her, it was her daughter, university student and citizen of the world. She was about as far from Haliburton, mentally at least, as she would probably ever be in her life. Walking with the bold assurance of youth, she strode across the street swinging her arms, then slowed to wait for poor old Louise to catch up.

A man sat in a low folding chair off to the side. He had chosen a traffic island, near the bus stop, to set. Vehicles and people of every kind flowed around him like a river. Seemingly oblivious, he read a paperback book held between his hands, his legs stretched out in front. A rather ragged sign, greyed white with large black lettering proclaimed, "Put a smile on your shoes $2".

The sign lay flat on the pavement and beside it a scuffed brown briefcase, its top open to reveal cloths and brushes, some clean, others less so. A collection of round glass jars of leather polish waited nearby.

The man looked to be between fifty-five and sixty-five years of age. He wore a plaid cap and a day's growth of grey beard. His face was not overly weathered and his clothes, although by no means new, had a sense of style. Dressed for the weather, a person would almost think he was there for the fresh air and reading, were it not for his paraphernalia.

Louise's daughter hesitated long enough to miss a step, then announced to Louise that her boots really needed a good sprucing up. Louise replied said she couldn't agree more. The man heard them and looked up, taking them both in quickly with a short, intense look.

Slowly he raised himself from his chair and looked at their two pairs of feet. Louise said her shoes were fine, thank you, so he turned his eyes on the daughter's scruffy footwear. He motioned her to the chair, cautioning her to be careful as it was a low seat.

After a brief discussion as to what colour polish he should use - they decided on a mahogany - the man began to apply the creamy colour to the most scuffed areas of the boots. At first he didn't speak but after a few minutes, as he reached for a small brush, he enquired as to the young woman's occupation. She replied that she was a student and Louise saw him nod his head as he offered a comment.

It was almost impossible for Louise to hear the conversation that followed between the shoe polisher and her daughter. The man's back was to Louise, who stood a little to the side to allow for passing pedestrians. And the noise of the traffic swirling in every direction around their concrete island covered all sound with a heavy city hum.

While Louise had not checked her watch when the shine began, she knew the process had taken at least twenty minutes. By the time it was finished, there were two more customers waiting, attracted by the show of business taking place by the bus stop. But the man would not be rushed. He seemed to be quite enjoying his talk with the daughter. Then, after administering a final buffing, he stood up and accepted the two loonies in payment.

Crossing the street to pass in front of the newer, smoother city hall, Louise's daughter apologised for the delay. Louise asked what they had talked about so earnestly for twenty minutes. Her daughter replied that the man had spoken of when had been a university student himself years before, of friends he had known. Then she laughed.

He had told her of the first time he had seen gravy walk. He had been enjoying a seventy-five cent meal in one of the dining halls when he found a bug struggling through his gravy. Louise groaned aloud with her daughter. They both looked down at her boots. The man had done an excellent job, putting smiles on more than just the boots.

SPOOKY

THE GHOST HOUSE

There was a ghost house on the south-east side of an abandoned road. The ghost house had spider webs almost three metres wide. There were holes in the floor covered by rugs to try to trap you. there were 100 ghosts in each room.

A little boy named John dressed in a ghost suit walked down the road to the ghost house on Hallowe'en. He knocked at the door.

"OOOOOoooo," he heard. He shivered and his teeth chattered. He opened the door and walked down the hallway. He fell down one of the trap holes, looked behind him and screamed! Three giant ugly ghosts started after him! John ran and tripped over a foot stool. He found himself looking up at a great, big ghost, the captain of the ghosts.

The captain ghost said, "Hello can we be friends?" as he helped the boy to his feet. The boy smiled and said, "yes!"

THE MANOR

After that experience I don't think I'll ever be the same again...

It all started when Oogie, our bulldog, wanted to go for a walk. So I said the words I'll live to regret forever: "I'll take him."

We took his favorite route. Up Diller Hill and past Lab Manor. Lab Manor belonged to a mad scientist who was said to have performed evil experiments on people.

The Haunted House
A boy named Matt was walking up the road. Matt saw a house and Matt walked to the house.
Matt opened up the door. I creeeek. He stopped.

in the room there was

One day a bunch of kids vandalized his equipment. He lived for revenge after that. He then died son afterwards, but on his death bed he swore he'd come back from the dead and perform his experiments again.

All of a sudden Oogie saw a cat. Unfortunately, Oogie loves to chase cats and when the cat saw Oogie it ran into the house. Oogie followed her and of course I had to go too.

Very bad idea. As soon as I got in the doors shut, I was trapped!

This black smoke soon covered me and I blacked out. When I woke up I was lying on a table with a weird guy hunched over me. He kept repeating, "Now's my revenge. Now's my revenge!"

I thought he was nuts until I realized who he was. He was the mad scientist! Then all went black.

When I woke up I was walking like nothing had happened. That's funny, I can see Oogie eye to eye. Oh, well.

Heyl a worm! Hmmm. Looks good (crunch) not bad. Actually quite good. Mmmm. Oh, there's my home. I've got to fly (tweet).

THERE'S NO SUCH THINGS AS GHOSTS!

It was a dark, stormy night. Little Janey Smith was trying to get to sleep. But every time the wind blew the tree outside her window would creak and its branches would tap against the window. Janey loved to read before she went to bed and that night she read a book about an evil spirit which would scare its victims by making spooky noises in the night. Janey couldn't help but think of the book every time the branches hit the window.

"There's no such things as ghosts," she kept telling herself, but still when the winds blowing, its dark out, and its raining you can't help but believe. All of a sudden a strong gust of wind blew and Janey's window blew open.

"W-W-What was that?" Janey cried startled. After realizing it was only the wind, she got up and shut the window. The floor creaked under her weight. "I hate this old house," she cried out of fear. Every time the floor creaked it made her spine shiver. She crawled back into bed. She felt something cold and slimy beside her! She started to scream but a bony hand clamped down over her mouth.

"There's no such things as ghosts, eh!" a voice that had an evil twist to it whispered.

"Everybody thinks that I'm some imaginary spirit, but I'm not. I'm real! I haunted that guy who wrote that book and now I'm going to haunt you!" The ghost vanished just as fast as it appeared.

"I must be dreaming!" Janey said to herself, then drifted into a deep sleep. When she woke up she noticed that everything was different. She was not in her bedroom but a strange new world.

"Welcome to your new home!" the spirit cried. "This is what happens to you when you mess with me!" The ghost vanished into thin air.

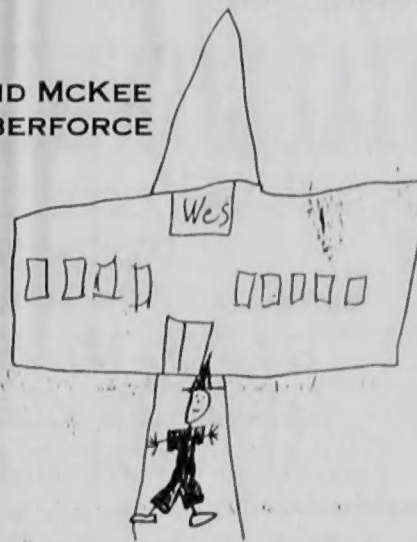

"What am I going to do? Where am I? How'd I get here?" All these questions popped into Janey's head at once. Suddenly Janey was hit by something hard! She blacked out!

When she woke she was cold and had a headache. She looked around. She was in her room. "It was just a dream!" she mumbled.

But if it was a dream then why was her window open and why was there a lump on her head? And also, why was there a big slimy spot on her bed?

THE EVIL

Heave ho! Heave ho!

IT was 1954 and the ruler of a town called Towan had just died. The people in the town of Towan believe in having big rituals when their leaders die. They were about finished the ritual when, CRACK! The rope broke, and the coffin fell in the hole. Phew, no one was hurt. Suddenly the coffin started shaking, and an evil spirit came out in the form of the ruler.

After that night no one was ever found in that town again except for one person. He knew that the only way to lock up the spirit was to hold up some anchovies. It doesn't like anchovies. In fact it hates anchovies. He held up the anchovies and the spirit backed away and fell in the coffin. He locked the coffin up in the basement - if he didn't, the ghost would kill every person in the world. It does this by sucking by sucking the energy out people so it can't have the energy. He just hoped that nobody opens the door to the basement.

Four hundred years later -

"Wow what a nice house! This isn't going to be too bad living here after all!"

Jack Manter just moved into the mansion on King Street in a town called Towan. He used to live in Toronto but moved to this little town outside of London, England.

"Come on. Let's go. We want to get the packing done, then we can look around the house," said Mr. Manter.

The Manter family finished unpacking and were looking around the house. When they got to the door going down to the basement they couldn't open it.

"There must be a key somewhere," said Mrs. Manter. "Come on we'll find it tomorrow. Let's go to bed."

That night Jack heard something. It sounded like it came from the basement. He got up to see what it was.

"Ouch!" Jack stubbed his foot on something. He turned on the light and looked down. There was a key on the floor.

"Funny, that key wasn't there when I went to bed." He thought maybe it was a key for the basement.

"Well it's worth a try," he thought.

When he got to the door he put the key in and turned it. It worked. He opened the door and walked down stairs and switched on the light.

"AAAAHHHHHHHHHHH!!!! Mom, Dad, there is a coffin in the basement."

He ran up the stairs and into his Mom and Dad's room but they weren't there. He ran all around the house looking for them.

Suddenly he heard a voice say "Thank-you for releasing me."

He turned around and saw the spirit. "Oh man I must have released it when I opened the door. It was in the coffin!"

It started chasing him. When he was going up the stairs, he tripped and it grabbed him. Suddenly, he was in the basement and he was all tied up.

"I must have been knocked out," he thought. Suddenly, he heard a crash. Someone broke the door down. It was the neighbours.

"I guess they know how to deal with the ghost," Jack thought.

They took out some anchovies and held them up. The spirit backed up. But suddenly, it jumped at them and sucked the energy out of them.

It was sucking the energy out of all the people in the town and soon it would get to other towns. No one can stop it now. Hey soon it will get to you!!!

MY GRANDMOTHER'S CURSE

It was only a couple of years ago when my grandmother died. It's kind of weird but I thought it should be told.

It was Hallowe'en day when I went to visit my grandma. There she was sitting at her grand piano, with her black cat, playing her favorite song that was an eerie Hallowe'en chant that she played every year over and over again. Personally I thought my grandma was very strange because she always had black candles burning all around the house. I didn't really want to go visit her that day but my mom said she needed a few errands ran so my mom volunteered me. I couldn't really say no because my mom already said I would. I walked over to my grandma and said "hello". She stopped for only a minute and then continued playing. I told her I would return in one hour. I walked into town and

Undeclared PeeWees rack up series of wins

Haliburton's OMHA PeeWee Huskies continued to terrorize the league this week. On Tuesday they proved to be inhospitable hosts as they beat Cannington 14-0. On Thursday they shut out the Monarchs 7-0 in Minden.

For a change of pace ... On Saturday they hosted the Bracebridge Bears, a "CC" level team, in an exhibition match. After the game the players said "Finally, some competition." But the result was the same, another Huskie "W" for a 4-1 triumph.

Throughout their five straight league victories the squad has played well, both individually and moreover they have played extremely well as a unit, concentrating on passing rather than scoring against some of the weaker opponents. Of course, through all of this the Huskies have had a lot of "Luck", Greg Luck that is. In the three games this week Greg has led the PeeWees offensively with 10 goals.

It was Luck who put Cannington on notice that it would be a long night, as the 14-0 final score proved. Early in the game Greg unleashed his awesome shot. The puck smashed the cross bar, broke into 2 pieces and both pieces dropped into the net for the first goal of the night. (We are still wondering what the decision would have been had one piece been in the net and one out.) Luck went on to add three more goals in the game. However, offense was the name of the game and mighty Nic Cochrane matched Greg's four goals and added an assist for a five point game. Defenceman Matt Reid was up to Nic's challenge as he rifled two goals and picked up three assist for his five point game. The goals were completed by centre Greg Forgrave with two, winger Chris Moynes with one plus two assists and defenceman Devon Dart with one goal and one assist. The goal scorers were not without help. Nic's linemates Allan Pugh and Bob Hebert had four and two assists respectively. Winger Mike Morissette had two assists and Dan Koz and Blayne Saunders one each. Defencemen Jamie Johnston and Cole Glendinning had one assist apiece.

The PeeWee Huskies beat Bracebridge 4-1 on Saturday in exhibition play

Minor Tykes victorious over Minden

On Saturday Oct. 15th, the Haliburton Minor Tykes played their first game of the season against Minden.

The first period ended scoreless although most of the play was in Minden's end. Haliburton's defensive squads, consisting of Greg Nimigon, Jenny Perrott, Josh Mayhew and Ryan Bottum, didn't allow a shot on Haliburton's net for six minutes. Dylan Metcalfe and Clayton Hodgson had several close calls but no goals. They kept the Minden goalie quite active. Finally in the second period, the action picked up. Jeff Griffin lured the goalie out of position and a pass from Scott Lewis enabled Jade MacInnes to drive the puck home.

After that the Huskies were sparked into action. Adam Sisson scored two goals unassisted while Connor MacMillan kept Minden at bay with his checking abilities. Minden eventually was able to sneak a goal past the goalie Jeff Burk. But Adam scored again to seal a 4-1 victory for the Huskies.

SCORING TOUCH: OMHA PeeWee Greg Luck moves the puck down the ice in an exhibition game against Bracebridge on Saturday. Luck has gone on a scoring rampage recently, netting 10 goals in his past three games. The PeeWees are still undefeated.

Atom C Huskies split games

The Haliburton Atom "C" travelled to Bobcaygeon on October 19 to tangle with the Cougars. Bobcaygeon is another centre that had enough players to form two Tri-County Atom teams. As the majority of communities in this situation they formed two even strength "B" teams. Haliburton was one of the few that opted to go with an Atom "B" and an Atom "C". The Cougars and the Huskies played a tight first period with Bobcaygeon managing the only goal late in the period.

The two teams played a scoreless second period, but Bobcaygeon scored two more in the third for a 3-0 win. The Huskies players had no reason to hang their heads because they gave the Cougars all they could handle.

The Huskies returned home for a Saturday afternoon game to face Fenelon Falls. This was the Huskies first game against a "C" calibre team. The Huskies got on the board first when Doug Roswell tipped in a blast from

Matthew Hutchinson. Fenelon tied the game up just over a minute later. The Huskies went ahead midway through period two when Matt Brown scored on a fine solo effort. The Huskies went ahead 3-1 when they scored short handed, as the Fenelon goalie stopped Cory Sisson shot, but Ryan Goldenberg was Johnny on the spot and banged in the rebound, for a 3-1 Huskies win.

Novice A Huskies answer wake-up call

On Monday Oct. 17th the Haliburton Novice As took to the ice in Cannington for their 3rd game of the regular season. Supporting a record of one win and one tie the young Huskies chanted with confidence. When you come up against a team for the first time in a season you're not sure what to expect. Remembering minor hockey as a kid. Cannington was always a fierce adversary with names like Nicholson and MacLeish. (Re-Philadelphia).

Cannington started the scoring five minutes into the game when a lone black and silver forward split the Huskie D and beat Adam Frybort high to the glove side. This would be the wake up call for the white and blue. After taking a pretty good bump on the chin Ross Gerry and the kid line exploded for five goals. You could see the flames trailing Ross's Blades as he carved Cannington's ice into shreds. Haliburton's Big J Line (Joel, Jamie and Jason) were held to just one goal by Cannington's pesky 1st line.

When the run up against a team that shuts down your scoring line you gotta like it when your checking line steps up and does some damage on the scoreboard.

Huskie points came from Ross Gerry with four goals nad one assist, Shawn MacInnes with one goal and one assist, Joey Sisson, Joel Cooper and Brandon Bowman with two assists each, and Jason Chambers with one goal. Alex Frybort stoned the Kings for the remainder of the game with some help from the defensive corps of André Nichol,

Matt Manary, Brandon Bowman and Jeremy Miscio (who was filling in for injured Norm Smith.)

On to Sunday, Oct. 23rd. The OMHA Novices were in Little Britain to take on the Mariposa Lightning. One and a half minutes into the contest the Lightning struck first on a pretty 3-way passing play. That didn't sit well with the canine team from the Highlands who bit right back 15 seconds later when Brandon Bowman fed Ross Gerry who made no mistake tying up the game. Both teams settled in and played some good two way hockey until late in the 1st the Huskies broke the tie when Ross Gerry tipped one to Shawn MacInnes who busted through the Lightning D and while falling chipped the puck over the Mariposa netminder. (The Haliburton fans went mad!)

The second period continued with more neutral ice battles until the halfway mark when a Lightning forward picked a Huskie pocket and tied the game up. With four minutes remaining in the second the blue and white answered right back on a beauty pass from Joel Cooper to Jason Chambers who found mesh.

The third period would belong to the Northern boys as pointman Norm Smith set up Joey Sisson who wrung a wrist shot off the goalie's face mask dropping directly behind the star struck netminder and Ross Gerry said thanks-you as he neatly tucked the gift into the yawning cage.

The Huskies sealed this one up in the dying minutes when Norm Smith assisted on Jason Chamber's heat seeking missile which blew the back of the net apart. (Well almost!)

Great teamwork buys and good luck against Bracebridge in your exhibition game this Saturday, Oct. 29th at Dysart arena.

Novice Cs battle for 4-3 win

The Haliburton's Novice C Huskies were at home to Manvers on Saturday. The Huskies took control of the puck from the opening face off and the Haliburton offensive lines set up play after play, earning themselves ten chances within the first five minutes of play, ten shots nicely taken care of for Manvers by goalie, Blair Bazley. The Haliburton team kept Manvers trapped in their own end until 9 strong individual effort from Manvers' number 8 brought the puck to the mouth of the Husky net. Jeff McKenna pushed it off and the Haliburton defence returned it to the Manvers end. The Huskies continued to band in the shots but the Manvers wall would not come down.

The play evened out in period two. Haliburton got on the board at 8:20 when Joel Johnson and Travis Burke teamed up to slide one in during a scramble. Manvers answered back at the 2:39 mark. The last two minutes of play were frantic as both teams dug in for the tie breaker. Solid goaltending at both ends held the score steady.

The tie breaker did come, however, early in the third. Manvers scored on a nice three on one play. Then it was three in a row for Haliburton - Jesse Johnson on a breakaway (Kyle Espie was hot on his heels in case of rebound),

Football teams crowned Kawartha West champs

by PETER DOWNS
Staff Reporter

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School's two football teams have been crowned Kawartha West champions.

The junior and senior Redmen beat their LCVI and I.E. Weldon opponents in two games last week to take the league championships and extend their undefeated streaks to six games each.

In a blow-out over their arch rivals, the junior Redmen blasted Weldon 47-0 on Friday.

The senior football team shut down LCVI at home last Tuesday 21-0 and took Weldon 21-9 on their turf on Friday in the squad's only come-from-behind victory of the season.

But winning Kawartha West didn't come without a price for the senior Redmen.

In the LCVI game, Will Wallace was knocked out of play for the remainder of the season with a badly broken leg. He had to have the leg operated on at Peterborough Hospital and is now recovering from the injury.

"We will miss him dearly," said coach Gary Brohman. "He is just an excellent player, and he was really coming along."

The seniors got their second scare of the season on Friday when they found themselves down 9-0 to the determined Weldon team at about the six-minute mark of the first quarter.

"That was something new for us," said coach Brohman. "That's the first time we've been in the hole."

Weldon received from the Redmen and immediately took the ball down the field for their only touchdown of the game. On their next possession, they were able to march the ball far enough down the field for a field goal, bringing their score up to nine.

In the second quarter, the Redmen were able to get on the board when quarterback Kevin Morissette connected with his brother Mark for the team's first six points on a passing play.

The team had a number of good chances at getting on the scoreboard again in the second, but had them all quashed by penalties and errors, said coach Brohman.

With the wind at their backs at the beginning of the second half, the seniors finally took control of the game.

"We started to put the ball up in the air a lot," said the coach.

Morissette hit Peter Brohman and brother Mark with a couple more passes to move the ball closer to the end zone before completing a 21 yarder to his brother to bring the Redmen into the lead. He then connected with Brohman on a two-point conversion, putting them ahead 14-9.

In the fourth quarter, the busy quarterback was also putting in time as a defensive back and made a huge interception for the team, snagging the ball midfield and carrying it down to the 24-yard line.

On the next play, Morissette passed to Brohman for the team's final TD. Morissette also kicked in the convert.

"All the scoring was done by those three boys (Brohman and the Morissette brothers), but we also had some really good running by Tim Stouffer and Chris Dobbins," said the coach.

As well, Eric Greaves made some important plays on specialty teams, he said.

Brohman, Stouffer and Aaron Tomlinson got touchdowns for the seniors in the team's first game of the week against LCVI.

Coach Brohman said Jamie Swinson, Garwood Thomas, Tomlinson, Mark Stamp, Paul Johnson and Daniel Selby all blocked well to create important holes for the team.

The senior Redmen will face the winner of the Peterborough league on Friday, Nov. 4 at home to determine which of the teams will go on to play for the COSSA title. Last year, the senior Redmen were COSSA champs.

Full game reports for the junior team's games were not available at press time.

Senior soccer team set to meet Weldon for championship

The HHSS senior boys soccer team finished the regular season with a convincing 3-0 win over I.E. Weldon at home last Thursday. The senior Redmen played their best game to date, showing patience and excellent ball control.

Fullbacks Ryan Goodall, Mike Ellis, Brandon Hatfield and Jon Hebert played a solid defensive game this week. Roberto Guerra was not tested often but made a couple of big saves to earn the shutout. This win was a full team effort.

The Redmen have a record of five wins, one tie and no losses on the regular season and play I.E. Weldon at home today (Tues. Oct. 25th) for the Kawartha West Championship. Kick-off is at 2:30 p.m.

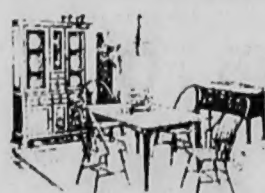

SEEKING POSSESSION: A senior Redman tries to take the ball away from an I.E. Weldon player in Thursday's home game. The Redmen scored a 3-0 win and will play Weldon again today to determine which of the teams will be Kawartha West Champions. The Redmen have five wins, a tie and no losses.

Wilberforce Rockets blast Fenelon 6-3

by SUE CLARKSON
Wilberforce

Last Friday night the rockets hit Fenelon Falls. The Atom team played first and flew across the ice in the first period with two goals, one by Sean Passaretti from Chris Alden and Nick Coty and the second by Chris Alden nicely assisted by Tom Bates. Once again Billy Hunter was busy in goal and stopped a multitude of pucks. The game was 2-1 until the third period when the Rockets blasted off with four goals - three of them in the last five minutes of the game. Sean Passaretti scored one and Chris Alden took three and an assist on Sean's. This team was without once of their defencemen too with a broken hand, as well as only one player at the bench resting. Get that hand better soon Kenny! They may be a small team in quantity but not in quality. Final score - Wilberforce 6 - Fenelon Falls 3.

Atom Players: Ben DeCarlo, Tom Bates, Kenny Mott, Chris Alden, Nick Coty and Sean Passaretti. Goal: Billy Hunter. Coach: Vince Passaretti. Trainer: Tony DeCarlo.

The PeeWee team followed after the Atom's in their first game of the season and with only one practice under their belts. Our goalie was nowhere to be found at the start of the game so Billy Hunter was brave enough to enter the net fresh from the previous game. He did a great job only letting one go by. At the end of the first period, Bill left for our regular goalie to join the game, who had been held up by a deer running in front of their car. Fortunately, no injuries to player, player's family, or deer, just a bit of a job getting the car back on the road and straight to the game. What dedication! The first goal of the year for this team was thanks to Jason Woodcox and assisted by Randy Bard, making the score 3 to 1 at the end of the second period. They were able to hold that score till part way through the third when everything broke down and Fenelon flew to an 8-1 victory in their usual rough style of play. It was their first body contact game and it took a bit for them to feel comfortable hitting into the boards.

This team consists of: Defence - Adam Passaretti, Adam Clarkson, Chris Coty and Sean Critch. Goal - Tyler Stire.

Forwards - Jason Woodcox, Jeremy Huffman, Rob McArthur, Craig Edwards, Randy Bard and Corby Semple. On the injured list is Ian Brown, with a broken collar bone. Hope you'll be with us soon Ian! Coaching: Ray Brown. Trainer: Tom Edwards. Better luck next time boys.

Saturday the Tykes played their first game of the season. This year its members are: Goal: Robin Kellar. Defence: Kevin Bowman, Aaron Donaldson, Kanan Quibell and Jesse MacKay. Wingers: Travis MacKay, Matthew Tripp, and Adam DeCarlo. Centres: Shawn Crowder and Galen Bowman. Coaching Staff: Lee Donaldson and Dean Kellar.

Their first game was played in Beaverton and you would never know they had only had one practice. The Rockets flew by the Beaverton net with three goals in the first period, followed by a second period with three goals and finishing the game with four goals in the third. Final score Wilberforce 10, Beaverton 2. Shawn Crowder had a good night with two goals and five assists. Matthew Tripp enjoyed placing one in the net and assisting on six others. Kevin Bowman planted three behind Beaverton's net and Aaron Donaldson had two unassisted goals. Travis MacKay scored his very first goal and was able to assist on two. Kanan Quibell scored one and assisted on another and Jesse MacKay helped out with two assists. It was a fun game for the Rockets. Robin Kellar did a great job in goal for his first full game in net. Keep up the good work team!

Our Novice team spent late Sunday afternoon in Manvers having fun with another high scoring game. Every player managed at least one point, except our goalie Matthew Davidson, and he did a super job in net for what little action that came his way. At the end of the three periods it was 10 to 1 for the Rockets. The boys racked up points left, right and centre. It's amazing what can happen when you play as a team. Keep on swingin' guys!

Gavin Swan scored one and assisted on four while Terry Bannon assisted on four as well. Mitchell Clarkson had a hat trick, Brandon Logan scored one and assisted on 2. Josh MacKay scored two and assisted on one, Matthew Reil scored one and assisted one, Tim Covert helped out with one assist and Paul Hutchinson and Tim Pettit each scored a goal. Congratulations boys!

The Tykes had fun in Haliburton Sunday morning with a big win against the Huskies. The boys had a great time racking up more points. Aaron Donaldson had a hat trick with a goal scored in each period along with an assist and Matthew Tripp scored one and assisted on one in each period of play. Another hat trick was earned by Kevin Bowman who also scored one in each period. (Do you think they would keep that up if there were more than three periods?) Jesse MacKay scored one and assisted on two and Kanan Quibell worked for two assists. Galen Bowman, Travis MacKay and Shawn Crowder each earned an assist as well. As in the previous game, Kanan Quibell did a great job in goal. The final score was Wilberforce 8 - Haliburton 3.

The last game of the weekend for Wilberforce saw the PeeWees playing Mariposa at the Little Britain arena late Sunday afternoon. It was a well matched game with good, clean checking and fun. The final score was 1-1. Our only goal, scored in the first period was by Corby Semple who deked around the goalie to pop it into the net. Thanks to Jason Woodcox for the assist. We might have scored more but a number of penalties kept us from a strong offence. The defence crew of Adam Passaretti, Adam Clarkson and Sean Critch worked hard, and along with the goalie, Tyler Stire, were responsible for keeping the score down. Way to go PeeWees!

That's all this weekend from Wilberforce Minor Hockey except to thank Boss Security Systems, B.H.C.S. and Bobcaygeon Tea Room for their sponsorship of new jerseys. The shirts are in and should be ready to wear within a week or two. Check with your coach for practice time as the ice will be in this week.

PeeWees shut-out Minden

The Minden PeeWees have not seen a lot of ice time or games yet this year. It showed as the Huskies over-powered their long time rivals. Minden's goalie Mitch Johnson was outstanding as he kept the score to only 7 - 0. Once again Greg Luck led the way with a four goal night. Defenceman Matt Reid scored two goals against his former teammates for his second two goal performance in as many games. Mike Morissette rounded out the scoring with help from his linemates Dan Koz and Greg Forgrave. Defenceman Cole Glendinning helped his partner Reid as he registered two assists. Chris Moynes and Morissette had one assist each. The down side of the game was that rugged winger Allan Pugh suffered a separated shoulder. The Huskies will certainly miss Al who never, just never, gives up. He is on the injury list for the next four to six weeks.

Bantam A Huskies win two, lose one

The Haliburton Bantam A have played three regular season games to date. The coaching staff for this season's team has three quality hockey men on the bench. Floyd Henry is the head coach, Gary Burch is the assistant coach and trainer, and Jim Burk is the manager.

The season opener was played Oct. 7th. at home against Woodville. Woodville had a number of good scoring chances early in the game, but Blaze Foster was hot between the pipes for the Huskies and held the Woodville snipers at bay. Matt Billings opened the scoring for the game (and the season) late in the first period when his hard blast from the point eluded the Woodville goal keeper. Haliburton took a 2-0 lead at 8:59 of the second period when Josh Burk took a pass from Matt Billings and buried the puck in the Woodville net. Woodville's Andrew Rea made a nice rush and slipped the puck past Foster at 3:03 of the second period. The Huskies had a strong third period adding two more goals shutting down Woodville. At 8:41 of the third, while playing short handed, Josh Burk made a nice rush and beat the goalie for a 3-1 lead. The Huskies added one more at 7:55 of the third when Steve St. Cyr scored with assists going to Sean Irvine and Andy Madill. Final score was 4-1 for the Huskies.

Game 2 was played on Oct. 14 with Cannington coming to Haliburton. The Huskies had all kinds of good scoring chances early in the match but the Cannington goalie was hot. The Huskies kept the pressure on and hit "pay dirt" late in the first when Bill Dovell's back hand shot found the net. Assisting on the goal was Jason Henry and Matt Billings. Early in the second period, Brett Wilson was set up in the deep slot by Darol Sisson and Josh Burk. Brett's hard wrist shot found the top corner of the net for a 2-0 score. Cannington scored midway threw the second period to make it a 2-1 score. The Huskies would not be out done keeping constant pressure on Cannington. Steve St. Cyr took a pretty pass at the side of the net from Josh Dennis and put the puck in. Then Josh Burk, on a fine play, scored an unassisted goal early in the third period. Bill Dovell hit "pay dirt" again when his slap shot from the deep slot was too hot for the Cannington keeper to handle. Greg Schell was sharp in net for the Huskies and even got involved in the scoring, when playing short handed late in the third period, Greg tipped a pass to Josh Burk who went end to end beating the Cannington goalie. With 33 seconds left in the game, there was an altercation which saw three Huskie players ejected from the game. (However, only one of them was involved in the incident?) This would prove costly because the three boys had to sit out the next game against Ops. The Final score was 6-1 On a fine team effort.

Game 3 was played on Oct. 16 in Ops. The Ops team came out flying opening the scoring in the first minute of the game. Ops has a big physical team and with the Huskies having a short bench for this match, the boys were in for a long night. Ops relentless offensive attack had them up 5-0 midway through the second period when Josh Burk put the Huskies open the scoreboard with a nice pass coming from brother Matt. The Ops team did not let up, winning 7-1 over the Huskies.

This year's Huskie team is made up of 2 fine goalies, 5 strong defencemen and 9 skilled forwards.

Field hockey teams finish seasons at tournament

At the Kawartha Field Hockey Tournament, Tuesday, Oct. 18 Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Seniors played their first game against Adam Scott.

After some initial scrambling, the Haliburton squad started to look quite strong. Adam Scott got the break they needed when a free hit from outside the circle entered the Haliburton goal. Even Adam Scott was surprised when the goal was awarded to them, the official claiming that the ball was contacted by an attacker in the circle.

Haliburton played well, trying to come up with the equalizer, but were unable to finish off several good chances.

In their second game, Haliburton was in a must-win situation facing P.C.V.S. However, a shift to a more offensive line-up was not enough to get the needed goals and P.C.V.S. won 2-0. The girls all worked very hard, especially goalie Mandy Harrison, whose end line clears were the "plays of the game".

The Haliburton Seniors have now concluded their season finishing in fifth place among the 14 schools in Kawartha.

On Thursday, Oct. 20 the Haliburton Juniors competed in the Junior Kawartha tournament. They played their first game against the undefeated and unscored-on team from Adam Scott who had soundly defeated them in league play. The Haliburton girls dominated play in the first half, but were unable to score.

In the second half Adam Scott took over, but the Haliburton defense held them scoreless, forcing overtime play. Adam Scott was able to get the first goal, which put Haliburton back on their heels and before the overtime was completed Adam Scott was able to score two more goals.

Haliburton then faced Crestwood in the bronze medal game. The girls were able to rebound with the spirit needed to dominate play and a goal by Lindsay Archer assisted by Amber-Lee Cully, coupled with a shut-out performance by Ainsley Heyes in net, gave Haliburton the win.

The Juniors have now concluded their season by finishing third in the six-team Kawartha Junior League.

Novice Bs keep on winning

The Haliburton Husky Novice Bs kept their undefeated record intact on October 22 with a convincing 7-1 victory over the visiting Novice Bs from Bobcaygeon.

Unlike the previous two victories the Bs came out of the dressing room flying, hemming their opponents in their own end right from the opening face-off. However, their intensity seemed to backfire when at 1:22 winger Nick Judge was penalized for interference.

Unfortunately for the boys (and a girl) from Bobcaygeon, this seemed to further fuel Haliburton's fire for victory as Andy Dawson scored not one but two short-handed goals on the same penalty. On the first, Dawson one-timed a beautiful goalmouth pass from defenseman Daniel Jung, while on the second he finished off a breakaway after taking passes from Jung and linemate Joshua Brown.

Haliburton continued the pressure getting several more chances to score over the next couple of minutes until at 6:32 Dawson completed his natural hat trick on a brilliant solo effort, beating Bobcaygeon netminder, Joe Coverley with a wrist shot over his blocker.

Bobcaygeon got that goal back less than a minute later when Dusty Kuyper jammed a rebound past Haliburton netminder Jeremy Moynes, but he Bs reestablished their dominance immediately as Joshua Brown scored twice on back-to-back unassisted breakaways.

The second period saw the Bs continue their territorial dominance and if not for the exceptional play of Coverley would surely have turned the game into a routine. However, the third period did not see Bobcaygeon's fortunes improve as Haliburton closed out the games scoring with two late goals, the first by Dustin Prindiville who finished a three-way passing play with linemates Andy Dawson and Joshua

Brown and the second by Mathew Roberts who converted a goal mouth scramble with assists going to Prindiville and Brown.

In a game dominated by Haliburton's offense, it's important to note that its defense routinely kept Bobcaygeon attackers away from their net, with Adam Hutson and Daniel Jung playing particularly strong games.

The Bs will try to make it four in a row when they travel to Minden this Saturday.

Calvin Roswell from Joel, and Calvin again from Joel, Travis and Trevor Trantau. Strong defence throughout the game by Adam Trueman, Josh Fick, Justin Abbs and Nick Chumbley had to be cranked up a notch as the Manvers team fought back. At 1:06 Manvers finally broke through and blasted the final goal of the game. It was a 4-3 win for Haliburton and excellent effort by both teams. The team thanks everyone who came out to cheer them on and to support the bake sale. This week's pick of the pack is Adam Trueman. Adam is a very versatile player. He can pinch in where he's needed. Adam is a winger this year but has played net and defence. Adam has also shown he's a true team player by planning some drills for the team to try at practice.

Haliburton Atoms come home from Beaverton with 7-0 win

Haliburton O.M.H.A. Atoms travelled to Beaverton on Sunday, Oct. 23 for league game #4. The train always seems to go through the town while the boys are on the ice. It used to be intimidating as you can almost feel the ice rumble, but now it is something the boys look forward to as it is a bit unusual.

Warren Cooper opened up the scoring for Haliburton in the first period with assist going to Jeff Wilson. Shane Campbell set up the next scoring play with Scot Curry garnering the goal and Ryan Wood also assisting. Nice play guys! Then Jamie Luck showed his finesse with a beautiful goal with Ryan Wood again assisting and Chris Petrow setting it up. Haliburton maintained control throughout the entire game. Warren Cooper notched his second of the game assisted by Jeff Wilson and Alex Judge. Jeff Wilson rushed up the ice to out manoeuvre the goalie on an unassisted play. Ryan Wood assisted by Scot Curry added goal #6 to the game. Chris Nimigon finished the scoring for Haliburton assisted by Jamie Luck. Adam Henry played a great game, digging and checking. Beaverton's #17 sure thought this as he was Henry and Curry's "shadow" throughout the game.

Net minder Andrew Sachs played steadfast in net earning his first shutout. Final score Haliburton 7 Beaverton 0.

Hyland Crest responding to concerns

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The following are brief reports of items discussed at Wednesday's meeting of county council. This was the last meeting of the present council as there will be changes in representation after the November 14 elections.

Warden's remarks

A coalition of wardens in Eastern Ontario has been highly effective, says Warden Jim McMahon. "We feel we are all striving for the same goal and by doing it individually we were being ignored by Queen's Park."

Hyland Crest

Members of the Advocacy Committee met with the senior citizens home's board of management to express their concerns over the care of residents. Stanhope Reeve Fred Gardner says some of the concerns are already being addressed and the other comments will be looked into.

Meanwhile, a Ministry of Health compliance advisor spent two days at the home investigating some of the complaints about resident care put forward by Phyllis Hiltz-Bontje, the home's director of nursing who was fired by the county last summer. That report should be available by the end of the year.

Because there have been a "limited number" of applicants for Hiltz-Bontje's job, the county will advertise the position again. It seems unlikely a new director will be hired before the end of the year.

An agreement has been reached with the members of the Ontario Nursing Association. The contract, which is in effect to Dec. 31, 1996, has no financial impact on the county. The board is also reviewing the Canadian Union of Public Employees agreement, making sure that all departments are involved so that a decision in one area will not have a negative impact on another department, Gardner said.

To help save money, the county has joined a purchasing group, allowing it to take advantage of lower bulk rates.

After Gardner's report, Dysart et al Reeve Curry Bishop said he believed the home was still "top heavy". When a new director of nursing is hired, he says the director could also take over some administrative and nursing duties, as is done at Extencare in Haliburton. Gardner said the Ministry says the county-owned home must have a DON and follow the regulations.

Staying quiet

Council decided not to get into a debate about whether they should support three motions recently put forward by Bev MacDuff on the Acting Health Services Board.

When McMahon brought the subject up, MacDuff said "because of all the negative media coverage, there was a question about my political interest in it." The Glamorgan reeve stressed she was on the board as an individual, not a county councillor and Noble confirmed she'd have no conflict of interest if council discussed the board's activities.

George Simmons was against even talking about the issue. "It's two months in a row we've had a resolution about the hospitals. As politicians, our work has been done by getting the $10.6-million for the projects. This political interference is wrong."

Eleanor Harrison agreed. "We have an acting board and every time we discuss it, we're muddying the water somewhat."

Fred Gardner said that the board's mandate is to decide what's best for the county's healthcare institutions and "it should not be part of the political arena."

Staffing

Following a closed session of the meeting, council voted on some staffing changes.

Clerk-treasurer Terry Noble, who was hired in the spring, was appointed as the Administrator/Clerk-treasurer. Snowdon Reeve George Simmons was opposed.

In a recorded vote of 9 to 6, council voted in favour with giving the personnel and roads committee the right to hire a roads engineer to replace Dave Valentine, who quit in August. Asked to explain the vote, Warden McMahon said some councillors felt the decision should be left up to the new council. "With winter months coming up and no construction, it could also be a cost saving," he said. However, other councillors felt "this council is in power to make decisions on behalf of taxpayers until the end of their term" and didn't want to delay.

The vote about whether to go ahead and hire an engineer was as follows:

Yea: Bern Berry, Lewis Stevens, Hans Stevens, Curry Bishop, Cam Ecclestone, Ross Rabjohn, Hans Liebmann, Fred Gardner and Eleanor Harrison.

Nay: Tom Elliott, Lloyd Leadbeater, Bev MacDuff, Glen Madill, Jim McMahon and George Simmons.

As Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Bern Berry noted after the vote, "this council for the last three years has had the most recorded votes in history. We've carried on with that tradition" for the last meeting of the present council.

Social services

The September caseload of the county's social services department was slightly higher than August's. However, the dollar figure dropped by $20,000, primarily because the school allowance was included in the August payments.

In specific, the county spent $358,523 in General Welfare Allowances in September. The caseload was 529, representing 1172 people.

With 75% of the year gone, the department has spent 74% of its budget and Stanhope Deputy-Reeve Eleanor Harrison says the department expects the budget will still be on target by the end of the year.

Staff attended training sessions paid for by the province and felt they were very beneficial. The backlog of cases should disappear.

At the recent board meeting, it was suggested that a retired police officer be hired to investigate possible fraud cases. However, council voted in favour of director Maurice Honeyman's suggestion of re-designating Dick Schell as an eligibility review officer. Schell was a caseworker who filled in for Honeyman when the director was absent, so council also agreed to hire a part-time caseworker. This allows Schell to work on fraud investigations. The decision will be reviewed in a year. A Futures student, Mike Ray, will also be hired at no cost to the county.

Children's Aid

The management of the Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society has been cleared of any wrongdoing. After extensive lay-offs last spring, the union representing CAS employees accused the management of mis-handling money and their responsibility. The province sent in a team of investigators who recently released an agency review which absolves the management completely, Monmouth Reeve Keith Tallman said. "They find nothing wrong with the way it's managed."

Haliburton County pays a portion of the CAS's budget.

Children's services

The board that is to oversee all children's services in the county had an all-day workshop at Kinark recently. The guest speaker's theme was prevention and health promotion as an antidote to trying to cure problems. In her report to council, Eleanor Harrison said one of the interesting points raised at the workshop was that 16% of the population needs help or counselling and of that, agencies are reaching only one-eighth of the people. As well, approximately $2-million per hour is spent on mental health.

The new board as yet has no name and Harrison said that after meeting with a United Way representative about how the board can be structured, she realizes "forming a board of this magnitude is not a simple task. It won't happen overnight."

Bern Berry, who is also a council representative on the board, says that they have an 18-month budget of $275,000. His concern is that in the future, the county will be asked to provide more of the funding dollars. "I already see strings and barriers coming up."

Roads

Glamorgan Reeve Bev MacDuff says she has received several complaints about the condition of County Road 3 (Buckhorn Road), which has "deteriorated to quite a degree. It's becoming very dangerous."

Improvements were slated for 1996 but she was wondering if they could be bumped up a year. Larry Kent, who's in charge of the roads department until an engineer is hired, said that the road was repaved in 1980. This past summer, the department began addressing some of the problems by removing rocks, patching holes and beginning preliminary work on the re-alignment of the road at the Concession X road. They are also beginning to improve culverts.

Thanks for memories

Bev MacDuff congratulated Jim McMahon, who was acclaimed as Lutterworth reeve, Eleanor Harrison, who was acclaimed as Stanhope deputy-reeve, and Ross Rabjohn, who was acclaimed as Sherborne et al reeve. All the other councillors are either stepping down or face opposition in the upcoming elections.

"It's been a learning experience," MacDuff said of her three years on county council. "I've discussed a lot, I've said a lot and I've heard a lot. It's been a pleasure."

The warden wrapped up the meeting by saying "we've been over some rocky roads and I feel positive seeing a few goals achieved that were set at the start of my wardenship."

Landfill pollution worries property owners

by STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Reporter

The following are brief reports of items discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of Glamorgan council.

Pollution concerns

Irondale River landowners are concerned over the impact of the planned expansion of the Glamorgan landfill site, says Reeve Bev MacDuff.

Some of the property owners who plan to develop cottages on the river, which runs on the south side of the landfill site, are worried about potential pollution from the dump addition.

"Does the expansion mean that those lots are encroaching anymore and will it have any impact on them whatsoever?" MacDuff asked By-Law Officer Dan Sayers. Sayers said it will not have any effect on the property owners' future plans and that waters are tested regularly. He said that council could lessen any impact by changing the zoning limits of the expansion, but "that would lessen the lifespan of the landfill," pointed out Deputy-Reeve Glen Madill.

That alternative was ruled out though because it would create too many complications.

Browsing for bargains

Council has decided to "look into" the price-tag of a surplus piece of land owned by the Ministry of Natural Resources.

The 100 acre parcel of crown land sits in the middle of a huge block of MNR land on the west side of Buckhorn Road just north of Gooderham and could "hypothetically" be used for a future waste landfill site or a trail area one day, said Clerk-Treasurer Rutter. "We are mildly interested but it would have to be for a very reasonable price," he said.

Council agreed to wait for an appraisal value and then decide on whether or not to enter into negotiations with the MNR.

Propane station planned

The Glamorgan Investment Group's plan to build a take-out restaurant on the former Mountainview Lodge land, which is scheduled to be challenged at the Ontario Municipal Board later this month by neighbouring landowners, also includes the installation of a propane filling station, which wasn't included in the rezoning application council previously approved.

"It was their intention to have it there in the beginning but somehow it just didn't get in our by-law," said Rutter, adding, "I don't see that it is going to cause any health concerns." Council has no problems with issuing a rezoning permit for the filling station and "it would be handy to have one closer to us rather than having to go all the way to Haliburton," said Councilor Lorrie Saville.

Reeve MacDuff said that "we have no objection to the tank. I don't see it as an issue or problem, it's not like it's going to pollute the ground or anything."

Flashing lights

At the request of the Glamorgan volunteer fire department, council will pay for recently purchased green flashing lights for emergency vehicles.

The money will come via reimbursement funds which council recouped from the Ministry of Transportation (which in turn bills insurance companies) for emergency responses to car accidents. "The fire department feels it is really their money and it is to cover their costs so they want to be reimbursed with that money and use it for the flashing lights,"

Rutter said. He said that replying to car accidents "is really going beyond the call of duty and we should recognize that."

In other fire services news, council agreed to renew under the same conditions the Moamouth Fire Agreement which was drawn up in 1985 and covers the boundary area along Bear Lake Road.

Revenues up

Dan Sayers gave his monthly update to council and reported that "everything seems to be running along pretty smoothly."

He said that there was an increase last month in the value of new construction compared to last year. While the value has jumped to $1,214,000 from $890,000, Sayers said "the actual number of projects is down but the permits we are getting are for bigger projects. There were more permits last year but they were for smaller things."

Health and safety lacking

Concerns about serious shortcomings in the township's health and safety standards were brought to the attention of council by the clerk-treasurer.

The departures of previous department inspectors after the last municipal election went without new re-appointments and because of that, said Rutter, "we are not complying at the moment (with provincial safety regulations)... and if we were ever inspected we would be found lacking."

Council discussed placing inspectors at the works department, landfill site, fire department and community centre, who would in turn report back to one inspector who would keep council informed on various problems.

"It is a chance to improve our commitment to the safety of our employees," said Rutter.

Lutterworth is operating smoothly, candidates agree

by STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Reporter

The four candidates vying for council in Lutterworth township are generally in agreement that with things running as smoothly as they are, not much in the way of change is needed. The following is a brief outline of the plans and ideas of each candidate as well as the experience which they have to offer.

Heather Hope

municipal duties if re-elected. As a fourth generation Lutterworthian, "I have years and years of experience here and know all the ongoing issues like road and dump problems."

With the township running smoothly and no real pressing issues at stake presently, he said the main objective now is "defending ourselves against the provincial government, because they are the only ones giving us trouble."

Candidate for town council Heather Hope, who owns Hope's Wool Shop in the back of her husband's Hope Satellite store, agrees with Valentine saying that she wants to help ensure "that the township continues on exactly how it's running, which is very smoothly. I'm very impressed with the way it has been run and I want to make sure it stays that way."

Hope, who worked for 10 years previously in Toronto for CNCP (now Unitel) as a financial revenue accountant before arriving in Lutterworth in 1988, said she only recently decided to test the waters of municipal politics. "I thought now was a good time to get my feet wet and see what happens."

As well as her accounting background, Hope believes her present passion for computers (she is continuing to develop her skills as a student at Sir Sandford Fleming College in Haliburton) will be an asset she can bring to the municipal office. "It's time to automate council."

She would like to see "the township become more ecologically involved and do a little more recycling and things like that," she said, throwing out the suggestion of a project along the lines of the Blue Box program.

Candidate Paul Pilon, who ran unsuccessfully in the last municipal election, is basing his campaign platform on the concept of uniting adjoining townships together for various projects. "I would like to further enhance the working relationship between neighbouring townships and Haliburton County wherever possible... to further reduce our current spending," he said listing examples such as fire department services, road maintenance and landfill sites.

"If we have a good grader then maybe we can grade another township's roads and they can clear our snow," he said as a hypothetical example as to how townships can "share and co-operate with each other."

He said that aside from addressing concerns about the short life-span of the Lutterworth dump site and pursuing recycling programs, "there aren't a lot of serious issues at stake right now."

The Moore's Falls resident works in the real estate industry (his father owns Paul Pilon Realty) and says that background will give him an edge in the municipal scene. "I know all the lakes and roads in the area, have experience dealing with shoreline allowance issues and survey problems and am well informed as far as what people's concerns are in the region, residents and non-residents."

Pilon was previously on the Lutterworth Environmental Committee and is presently involved in the Haliburton Highlands Water Advisory Committee.

Mike Wahlroth

With his family having settled here in the 1920s, councillor hopeful Mike Wahlroth has deeply entrenched roots in the community.

He says that the town is debt-free and running smoothly, "and I just want to make sure it stays that way."

Wahlroth has been a member and President of the Moore's Lake Cottagers Association and said he wants to ensure the preservation "of the natural beauty."

One of the few complaints he's heard in the community is "limitations on the dump and if there's a way to make things more convenient for the public we'll find it," he said adding he wants "to give the people a bigger bang for their buck."

With "no burning issues" facing the township, he said he will try to avoid any tax increases or cut-backs, "because people have been hit hard enough over the years and why aggravate them more."

Monmouth candidates meet voters, detail aims

Harry Clark

and is up against Patricia Simiana of Wilberforce.

Clark, also a resident of Wilberforce, says he has been deputy-reeve so long that he doesn't even remember when he first won the seat. (However, Monmouth clerk Sharon Stoughton-Craig does know. She says Clark was first elected in 1980.)

Clark said he cares very much about the municipality and wants to continue to be involved in its operation.

Even though Monmouth is a small municipality, it has many of the same amenities as some of the bigger ones in the county, he said, noting the curling club, arena, library and community centre in Wilberforce.

Council has been able to handle these projects, as well as its regular day-to-day duties, with little difficulty, said Clark.

"Everything has been going smooth with us," he said. "We seem to get through it all without any fighting or sparring."

Simiana has not previously run for political office, but has a long connection with politics. Until she took early retirement and moved to Wilberforce six years ago, she worked at Queen's Park for 23 years, including six years as a clerk in the registrar's office and 17 years in management.

"I hadn't originally planned to run for politics at all because I had worked with politicians for a long time," she said, "but my friends and family members kept telling me that I could help make a difference."

Since moving to the area full-time, Simiana says she has become very involved in a number of community groups. She is a member of Wilberforce's Heritage Guild, the Haliburton Highlands Literacy program and the community policing committee.

If she were to be elected deputy-reeve, Simiana says she would have an "open-door policy" for constituents.

There is a five-way race for three councillor seats in Monmouth. One seat will be left vacant by Dwain Tighe who has moved from the municipality and is not seeking re-election. Incumbents Wren Hughes and Ruth Strong both hope to continue in their current capacities on council and Jim Deterling, Margaret Finlay and Rick Forget are all council hopefuls.

Wren Hughes

Though he is now retired, Hughes, who has served one three-year term on council, says he wants to use the experience he has gained in business and management to continue to assist the municipality.

Hughes previously ran his own logging company and then worked as a supervisor and assistant manager for more than 15 years at Martin Lumber.

The Wilberforce resident says that being retired gives him more time to devote to the task of being a councillor than someone who is working full-time.

Hughes said he doesn't want to see council raise taxes at a rate higher than the rate of inflation.

Hughes is a member of the board organizing the new 34-unit non-profit housing complex under construction in Wilberforce. He also sits on the recreation, cemetery, fire and police committees.

During the three years that she has been on council, Tory hill resident Strong says the combination of the recession and government cutbacks has forced Monmouth to keep a tight reign on its own spending.

Even still, she said, the municipality has been able to buy a new piece of grating machinery, as well as some important equipment for the fire department, while raising taxes by a total of only five per cent since 1991.

Strong, who has worked at Wilberforce Veneer for 27 years, said she is always willing to do what she can for constituents.

"I don't pretend to know everything, but I would be glad to investigate people's concerns and see if I can get the answers," she said.

Deterling, who served a three-year term on Monmouth council in the early '80s, says he continues to be interested in the municipality.

The Tory Hill resident won a seat on council in the 1982 election, but lost it by a count of two votes in 1985. He ran for deputy-reeve in the last election, but was beaten by Clark by 12 votes.

Those narrow losses, however,

Jim Deterling

have not deterred Deterling.

"I've always been interested in politics," he said. "I feel I have a lot to offer ... I could offer good judgment. I'm always willing to listen, and to listen to both sides."

Deterling works at Wilberforce Veneer. He is a fifth-year apprentice electrician and says he hopes to write the tests to receive his electrician's papers this year. He has been a volunteer firefighter for the past 20 years and is a member of the Wilberforce and Area Volunteer Police Association. He coaches minor league hockey and a men's league team.

Margaret Finlay, also of Tory Hill, has decided after a long hiatus to once again seek office.

Finlay served three successive terms on council in the early '70s when municipal elections were still held every year. She was not voted out of office, but says she chose not to run for re-election at the end of her final term for personal reasons.

Margaret Finlay

Finlay says she has the time that it takes to devote to the job of being a councillor.

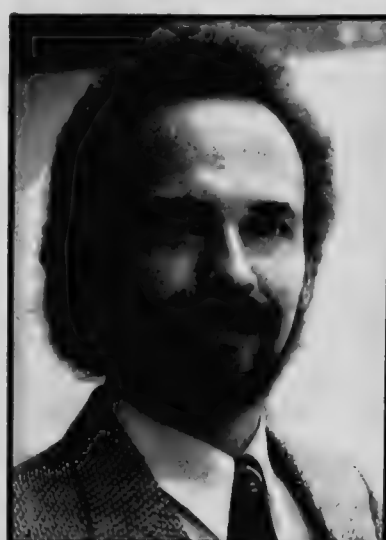

"I want to try to be of help to people," she said.

Finlay retired from her position as accounting assistant to the Haliburton County Board of Education's business administrator in 1982, but has kept active in the community.

She has been a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of Branch 129 of the Royal Canadian Legion for more than 30 years and holds a lifetime membership to the organization. She is also a volunteer driver for Home Support Services.

Rick Forget (pronounced Forjay) moved to Wilberforce more than five years ago from Toronto and works as an associate broker at Montage Real Estate.

Rick Forget

He says he quickly developed an interest in the local political scene after settling here and has been attending meetings of Monmouth council on a regular basis over the past three or four years.

"I have an interest in the area and want to be involved in planning the future of it," he said.

Forget, who is running for political office for the first time, says the organizational and management skills he has developed in the retail business would help him carry out the duties of a councillor.

The 33-year-old said a number of people he has met while knocking on doors have told him "it would be nice to see some young blood on council," though he is not so sure his age would have a bearing on his performance.

Forget says his occupation has given him the opportunity to be familiar with the whole municipality and would also allow him to be accessible to his constituents, if he were to be elected.

Forget is a volunteer firefighter and a member of the first-response team.

Monmouth school board trustee Nancy Dunford has been acclaimed.

Medical care and recreation were the main topics of concern raised by the few members of the audience that chose to ask the candidates questions. All of the questions, except for two, were fielded by Tallman.

One man asked whether council had done anything to help the Acting Health Services Board come to a decision about the consolidation of the county's acute care beds.

Tallman said council is pleased with the board's recent decision to back the proposal of consolidating a number of beds at the Haliburton Hospital.

"That's where they should be."

Tallman also said the municipality is going to make some cosmetic improvements at the medical centre in Wilberforce with the hope of convincing doctors from Haliburton to spend more hours per week at the facility.

Another woman from the audience asked the candidates if they have any proposals for additional activities the recreation board can organize for the community.

Tallman said there hasn't been much support within the community for new initiatives.

"If you'd like to initiate something yourself, you could come to the recreation board with the idea and talk about it there," he said.

A teenager from the audience asked reeve candidate Dale if he has any plans to co-ordinate activities for area teens.

Dale said he sees a lot of kids hanging around his restaurant with nothing to do. He said he would like to organize events for local teenagers, though he came forward with no specific ideas.

Balancing act a challenge for next education board

by STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Reporter

Sixteen-year veteran school board trustee Cheryl Murdoch believes the critical challenge during the next term of the Haliburton County Board of Education is "balancing the quality of education with the financial restraints we are dealing with."

The former two-time board chair and teacher says that while upholding the quality of education is a must, it will be a difficult task without an increase in provincial funding. "We are between a rock and a hard place and the community as a whole has to band together and put pressure to get some action from the Ministry of Education because we are all in this together," she said, adding that the 28 per cent portion of the provincial pie which the county gets is not fair.

She says she wants to ensure the additions to the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School move ahead and "get through all the red tape" because "as it is we are definitely overcrowded and need the space. We can't put it off any longer."

Examining the Board's spendings and modernizing the high school curriculum are the basis of trustee candidate John Lynch's platform.

A life-long Moore's Falls resident with two children in the county's education system, he has concerns that with two-thirds of each tax dollar going to the school board, there isn't enough monitoring of the board's expenditures. "They don't release to the general public a statement of their spending and I'd like to have a look at it to see if there are ways of keeping it to a minimum," Lynch said, adding that while Lutterworth township taxes weren't increased last year, "our taxes still went up because of the Board of Education."

He recognizes that recent school additions have taken their toll on the budget books but "there has to be some areas that can be tuned up or cutback on."

The former business owner and real estate broker also wants to see more modern courses added to the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School's curriculum. He believes that local students are being put at a disadvantage by not taking more up-to-date courses such as some schools in larger communities, which limits their future potential.

"Our students need updated and modernized courses to fit today's job market," he said. "You hear about other schools that are bringing in a lot of technology so that when students compete in the job market or to get into college or university, they have the necessary skills."

LOCAL BOARDS IN ONTARIO

On November 8, key players in Ontario's training and adjustment system are invited to participate in the launch of their Local Board.

Local Boards will be independent, not-for-profit corporations, governed by a Board of Directors and will address training and adjustment issues in the community.

The launch meeting will be hosted by the sponsors. It will be the first step in making your Local Board a reality. Call 1-800-608-4502 if you're unsure which Local Board you're in.

The launch is a working meeting that will bring together the seven labour market partner groups who are most affected by how policies are decided and programs run. They include those in the community who represent business, labour, women, racial minorities, people with disabilities, francophones and educators and trainers.

The meeting will feature a presentation on Local Boards and provide the opportunity for the local labour market partners to meet and discuss this important initiative.

WHEN: Tuesday November 8, 1994
TIME: 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. (Registration begins at 6:30pm)
WHERE: Ramada Inn
100 Charlotte Street, Peterborough

ACCESS: Simultaneous English/French translators and sign language interpreters will be available. We ask that you advise us in advance if you need these services.

RSVP: Space is limited. Please RSVP the Local Board Implementation Team at 705-745-0551

Volunteer of the Year recognized for dedicated year of service

C.H.A.C.E. worker rewarded for "keeping everyone in line"

by STEPHEN SHAW
Staff Reporter

C.H.A.C.E. volunteer Sally Hepworth figured that if she hadn't received any recognition by now, "at my age I'm never going to get it."

Well she can throw that assumption out the window as last week she was named C.H.A.C.E. Volunteer of the Year for her dedicated work and contribution to the agency's Minden Resource Centre two mornings a week during the last year and a half.

"I'm so embarrassed," said the colourful Hepworth as she accepted a gift basket and award plaque. "I'm not used to getting all this attention."

Hepworth, who has two daughters and two grandsons, was recognized for her day-to-day support to the parents, children and staff at C.H.A.C.E. and for "spoiling all these babies and keeping everyone in line," she joked.

Whether it was bringing her compassion and sense of humour to the centre or washing toys and dressing up as a fireman or policeman in games with the children, she said her role with the agency is "very rewarding. I just love children."

SAYING THANKS

Sally Hepworth, named C.H.A.C.E. Volunteer of the Year last week, is presented with a plaque honouring her year-and-a-half of dedicated service helping out at the resource centre in Minden and "keeping everyone in line"

Newcomers welcomed to the neighbourhood

West Guilford
Eleanor Cooper - 754-2388

Dr. Stelian Rotaru of Paris, France has been visiting David Pequegnat for the past two weeks.

The Stamp and Wright families are trying to recover from the sudden shock of Eunice Wright's death last week. Her life was lived with as much love towards parents Cecil and Hattie, towards her brothers and sisters, and above all her husband Truman. That the love was returned in full measure was more than apparent in the attendance at Eunice's funeral. There was room in the main area at Monk's for only the family connection, so many were involved in the direct connection of relatives. The hall was crowded with still more of us, friends concerned for the sad, sad loss of this loving and wonderful person.

We also mourn the loss of Merle Thomas, wife of Francis Thomas of Carnarvon, who also has such a wide circle of friends as well as relatives.

Sunday, October 23 was a happy reunion time for Owens and Cooper relatives with the Fords at Orillia when Thomasin Ananda Kathleen was baptized at St. James Anglican Church. A pot luck lunch was enjoyed by one and all at the friends meeting house on Westmount Drive after the service. Alan and Sophy Cooper were happy to host the very special occasion.

Seventy-five people attended the annual Gideon banquet at West Guilford, held this year at the Centre and catered to by the Baptist Church Ladies. Entertainment later was provided by Jack and Ruth Foster with vocal, guitar and mouth organ music. Money raised goes to placing Bibles both here and abroad. The speaker related needs in Poland for scriptures. Kay and Clarence Nickel hosted the banquet.

Welcome to the neighbourhood to Joe Edwards (and Clyde his dog) who have moved in next door

Congratulations to Jim and Maggie Milne on the birth of their first grandchild, a son for Susan and Henry van Ael in Thunder Bay, on Friday, October 14.

BEDTIME STORIES FOR THE BRAVE

did all the errands. I had only taken 45 minutes so I knew grandma wouldn't be worrying about me. As I walked back to grandma's I had a weird feeling inside, like someone was sending me a message. When I got to grandma's house I felt that feeling again only this time it was stronger. When I reached the living room I walked in and started to scream. There was my grandmother with her head stuck under the lid of the piano. It must have come crashing down somehow and killed her. Nobody could figure out what had happened. It was a mystery. About a week after the funeral a man ran into the emergency room of the hospital, complaining that someone was following him and playing a song, loudly, over and over again. He said it was giving him headaches and driving him nuts. The weird thing was that the song was the one my grandmother always played, that eerie Hallowe'en chant. Eventually the doctors admitted him to an asylum because they didn't hear music that he said he heard playing. I'll tell you what I think. I think my grandmother was a witch and she cursed that man because he killed her by playing that song in his head all the time. The moral of the story is if you ever hear a song playing in your head over and over again you'll know you're being punished for doing something bad. Have you heard any songs lately?

MR. BLINKINGTON

In the ancient town of Cullind there lived an old grouchy man by the name of Mr. Blinkington. For many generations the story was passed on about what Mr. Blinkington did to the town of Cullind so many years ago. It still faintly exists within us now and forever.

The name Mr. Blinkington has a lot to do with the curse he cast on Cullind. Yes, he came up with blinking! The reason for this was because the town hated and was afraid of him so much that they got a brave person to burn out Mr. Blinkington's eyes when he was asleep. After suffering such agonizing pain, when he did nothing to deserve this, he was furious. Just before he killed himself he cursed the town saying that for one hundred the town would suffer and their eyes would flutter open and shut constantly fifty time per minute! He said this was called "the Blink". This still wasn't enough though. After one hundred years, Mr. Blinkington was still devastated and that's why even still we blink. That's Mr. Blinkington haunting us.

THE DAMNATION

Tom Reinbeck and his wife, Rachael stepped out of their 1991 Ford Taurus and looked up at the towering house that stood in front of them. The house looked ancient, yet somewhat comfortable with the surrounding trees and the gardens.

"Nice place," said Tom excitedly.

"Come on, let's take a look inside," Rachael said still looking up at the house.

As they started to walk up the steps they heard a sound much like the pounding of a court gavel, followed by the sound of people chanting. They looked behind them and saw nothing. They then realized the sound was coming from inside the house. As they opened the front door the sound ceased.

"Those chants came from inside, honey."

"I know, let's forget about it and look around," Tom replied.

They both went in different directions. Rachael went into the kitchen and Tom went into what looked like the study.

Tom looked at the bookcase which was filled with hardcover books. Scanning over them one caught his eye.

Pulling the large book out he opened it to the first page and started reading about the history of the house.

The book told how the house supposedly belonged to the archangel St. Asteroth in 1828. Then in 1905 the house was occupied with the satanist cult called "The Damned." This cult was killed in 1943 by a mysterious explosion of the house.

The house was rebuilt in 1963 but not without three deaths that happened during the building. The first two deaths were by electrocution but the third one was really strange. A witness said a skill saw suddenly came alive and decapitated a worker. Tom closed the book and breathed deeply. He couldn't believe what had happened in the house he just bought.

He quickly ran to his suitcase and opened it up, searching frantically for the silver crucifix that he was given for Christmas last year.

When he found it he stuck it in his back pocket.

Suddenly he heard a scream coming from the kitchen and realized it was his wife.

He ran to the kitchen but he was too late. The scream was cut short.

As he entered the kitchen he screamed in horror at what he saw. His wife was pinned to the wall with a meat cleaver.

"Noooo!" He screamed and fell to his knees crying. "Why did this have to happen to Rachael? Why?"

He heard a whirring sound and looked to his left. He could see an electrical current going through the walls. A fire started to his right and an explosion sent bricks flying everywhere and left a large hole in the wall in front of him.

"What the..." His words were cut short by a figure materializing in front of him. As it took shape he saw that it was a bald man with a large mole on his forehead. His figure was tall and muscular and his eyes glowed bright red as if all the fire and brimstone in hell was condensed inside his body. His finger nails had to be six inches long and he wore an amulet with a pentagram on it. Though the man didn't identify himself Tom knew who he was. He was Satan's dark warrior, the evil St. Asteroth.

Asteroth spoke in a raspy tone like a serpent, "You have invaded the domain of my master, Lucifer and now you must pay the price. When this house was built it opened the fiery gates of Hades, and through this house we will unleash the powers of hell unto the earth and no Christian will survive. We only need one more sacrifice and the gates of hell will be swung wide open."

"It won't be me," Tom replied and pulled out the crucifix.

"Mere mortal," Asteroth rasped, "Your puny faith won't save you here."

"Owl!" Tom said and dropped the cross when he felt the silver scorch his hand.

Asteroth pulled out a decorated ceremonial dagger and advanced toward him reciting satanist prayers.

Tom stood paralyzed, he could not move. He began to scream but it was cut short.

In the coming hours all demons and even Lucifer himself entered the mortal earth, and there was no mercy.

A SPOOKY STORY

Once there was a boy named Brian. He went camping in a dark, dark woods. He really liked to go camping. One night he was walking in the woods to go to set up the tent and when he got there he set a fire. He warmed up. Then he set the tent up. He had just gotten it up. When he went and sat around the fire and thought how much fun it would be, when suddenly he heard something stomp through the woods. He tried to hide in his tent but it was too late. He had already come out. He was a big, big bear. He came out and had seen the fire and was already sitting around it. He smelt Brian. He started walking towards the tent. Brian got scared. He was starting to think he didn't like camping anymore. He really got scared. But the bear left so he went back to sleep. The bear came back and ripped the tent quietly. The bear hopped in the tent and went to sleep. In case you didn't know he was starting to like the little boy. Brian was only 10, but he enjoyed camping. But this time he didn't enjoy camping. He woke up and hugged the bear. They like each other forever.

SAFETY TIPS FOR TRICK OR TREATERS

1. Go trick or treating with an adult, or a friend. If you don't go with an adult, draw a map of the route you and your friends are going to take. Give a copy to your parents and take one with you.
2. Wear light coloured clothing.
3. Wear a reflective armband or reflective tape.
4. Bring a flashlight.
5. Walk on sidewalks.
6. Cross at intersections.
7. Make sure eyeholes in masks don't restrict vision. Take off masks when crossing streets. (You can use make up instead of masks)
8. Don't eat treats until parents have checked them.

Adults: Please remember to be extra careful on the roads on Hallowe'en

Fashion show a success

Wilberforce

Flo Elliott - 448-2618

The 10th annual Christmas Craft Sale will be held on November 5th at the Lloyd Watson Center, starting at 9 a.m. This is a sale of new crafts only and many beautiful items will be on display. There will be free coffee available as well as a free door prize draw. Lunch of chili and sandwiches will be on sale for a reasonable cost.

Please take note: The Figure Skating Registrations will take place at this sale as well. The Figure Skating Club will have a bake table and, if possible those whose children are involved with figure skating are asked to donate baked items.

The Fashion Show held by the Legion Ladies Auxiliary on Saturday Oct. 15th was a great success. The tables looked lovely with white cloths and dainty lunches. The ladies would like to thank Mary Barker for the excellent hall decorations. Mary has a special talent in this area and always knows just the right decoration to make an event extra special. Thanks also to MayAnne Jordens, our own home grown model for being in the show and giving it that professional touch. The clothes were from Home Town Fashions in Haliburton and everything from formal dresses to pajamas, nighties, and winter jackets were on display.

The impressive musical entertainment was provided by the Hughes boys, David on the keyboard, Nathan on the musical saw and Tim on the saw. Their selections were enjoyed by all, especially the musical saw. The Haliburton County Cloggers gave a demonstration of their fancy footwork and were very well received also. The legion ladies thank the entertainers and wish them success in the future.

The seniors' card party was held on October the 14th and the winners were: Lone Hands, Bill O'Brien. Men's High Barry Dunford, Ladies High Phyllis Bowen. Men's Low Robert Saunders, Ladies Low Ethel Deterling and the door prize was won by Bill Culp.

Please remember that November 14th is Municipal Election day and get out and vote.

PONY EXPRESS: Calvin Piels goes for a pony ride at the Gooderham Public School Fun Fair last Thursday. The event was to help raise funds for future school programs.

Ann McKay - 489-2924

There is little news that is not sad news these days. I lost a dear friend and the community lost a warm and kind person with the death of Merle Thomas. Our sympathies to Francis and her family who came from Sturgeon Falls, Oshawa, Scarborough, Burlington among other places and all surrounding areas.

Dave and Mary Bell are spending the weekend with their grandchildren who they plan to take them to the African Lion Safari.

Many Snow Birds are heading south during the next couple of weeks. Have a safe and pleasant winter.

I will be away for a few days visiting my son Ken at the Etobicoke General Hospital where he is recovering from surgery.

Saturday night the ladies of Branch 129 Auxiliary to the Legion were entertained to dinner and dance by the branch to celebrate their 50th anniversary.

Get well wishes to Mabel Russell who seems to be spending a lot of time in and out of the hospital these days.

Lion's Club Raffle winners announced

Coboconk

Sheila Lake - 454-2314

Sympathy goes out to the families of the late Helen Baum, Kathleen Wren, Pauline Thornbury, Clifford Hicks and Elva Pearce. These folks were laid to rest recently and will be very greatly missed.

Winners in the Lions Club Sportsman's Raffle, held on Sept. 5th were:

First prize: Boat, motor, trailer 14' deepfill, 9.9 h.p. 700 lb. 12" wheel, value $5,500. was won by Dave Rich of Oakville. Second Prize: Fishing package for two (all inclusive) Sand Beach Lodge (French River) value $1,302. was won by Mark McLean from Shanty Bay. Third Prize: Rifle (your choice) from the Norland Trading Co. Value $500. was won by Robert Hart of Cannington.

Fourth Prize: Hunting clothing package. Norland Trading Co. value $400. won by Fiona Williamson of Coboconk.

Fifth Prize: Fishing rod package from Norland Trading Co. won by Ronald Chynoweth of Coboconk, value $250.

Congratulations to Joyce Oke of Haliburton, who was married recently. Cousins Betty and Rick Silverstone, Darlene Levesque and children, Dawn and Jason and Grace Young attended.

An old fashioned fall fair, like the fall fairs of over fifty years ago, where children grew and displayed their vegetables and flowers etc. was held recently at the Ridgewood Public School here. There were forth entrants and it was a very successful event.

There were many art displays as well as the vegetables and fruits. the 4H club, Sea Cadets and Navy League had displays and information on their clubs with staff present to talk with, if you wanted to learn more. Prize winners were:

Over-sized Pumpkins: Nicole Gerrow, Jeremy Chynoweth, Ryan Ruttan. Zucchini: Jenny Swain, Michelle Anderson, Tyler McAllister.

Art
Paint - Taylor Barbour; Crayon - Michelle Anderson and Laura Ruttan; Heather Anderson and David Graham and Nicole Gerrow and Jeremy Chynoweth, David Graham.

Flowers or trees: Elysha Berry, Stephanie Boyce, Niki Madore.

Collections: Lisa Handley, Nicole Gerrow, Michelle Anderson.

Leaf Collection: Anne Handley.

Artwork: Alicia and Jamie Haley.

Hobbies: Heather Anderson, Chelsea Wires. Photography: Flowers: Matthew Jewell; Pretty Spot: Matthew Jewell, Chelsea Wires.

Old fashioned prices bought a child a cone, ice cream bar etc. Principal Brian Hough was very thrilled with the entrants and was very co-operative for this event, the brain child of Bernice Taylor, in co-operation with Coby Horticulture Society.

The Coboconk Seniors had made a lovely quilt and sold tickets on it, and a couple of other prizes. The draw held on Oct. 12th, with tickets pulled out of the box by Jim Hannivan, saw the first prize the quilt being won by Florence Spring of Lindsay. Florence is a former Coby resident and still a senior member here. Second Prize: Cathy Page of Simcoe won $50. Cathy is the daughter of Joe and Mary Heffer. Third Prize of $10. was won by Jennie Cochquhoun.

A SAFETY PRECAUTION: While volunteer Chris Ricketts helps Debbie Cary fingerprint her five-year-old daughter Sandra, on left, Jacqueline Smith gets her son Dalton's fingers covered in ink, too. It was all part of the Glamorgan Police Support Association's free child identification clinic on Saturday morning. Forty-three children were fingerprinted and had their photos taken and the information will be stored at their parents' home should something ever happen to the child. Parents can pick up the photos this week at the municipal office.

Bazaar and Bake Sale crafts being prepared

Extendicare

John Menzies

October 22, 1994: The staff and residents of Extendicare welcome Mr. George Poleschuk and Gordon Sharpless to their midst. May their stay be long and happy.

Residents are spending time getting crafts ready for the Christmas Bazaar and Bake Sale coming up on November 5th from 10-2. Any donations to the sale will be appreciated.

In activities this week Fred Mcphail led Bible Study on Tuesday. Residents went to Haliburton Legion for Pot Luck Lunch on Thursday, and on Friday Rev. Brian Plouffe led residents in Communion.

The Scottish Highland Dancers led off the entertainment with an assortment of traditional and modern steps. Their music is lively and their stepping make you want to get up and join them.

Karl and Terry Upton were in on Thursday night to help celebrate the Birthday Party for October, sponsored by The Full Gospel Light-house. Kathleen Day, Helen McWilliams, Peggy Ferguson, Jack Hughes, and Lila Simmons all celebrated birthdays this month.

Residents enjoyed a special showing of White Fang on the large screen on Saturday Matinee.

This week staff and residents mourn the passing of two residents, Jack Hughes and Karl Tallman. Regrets go out to the families.

Assisting elderly topic of discussion

Minden Women's Institute

Jeanne Sears - 286-1538

On Wednesday, Oct. 19th, Jean Cox, Vice President, welcomed the 13 members of Minden Women's Institute to the lounge of "The Terrace" with guest Margaret Graham of H.K.P.R. Health Unit. She spoke on communication with many ideas and advice in many areas and how to cope with ill or elderly, showing us how we may assist with deafness and after-effects of a stroke. She also told us of the effects on family members. Also some ways of preventing illness, as with correct meals, safety devices, visit to doctor or minor exercise. In many ways we can adjust to changes and be helpful. A small gift was given to her and all gave her a round of applause.

The meeting then continued; the Card Report had Irene Moore sending 14 cards since the last meeting and collections for this fund and Pennies for Friendship were taken. A few changes were made on some of next meetings on the programs.

We then heard from Convenor Beulah Hewitt with her talk on an industry at one time, going on at Eagle Lake called the International Coopersage. She gave many details and memories, as at one time 60 men were employed there and told of production of barrel heads from fresh-cut timber and of its being shipped to U.S.A. The whistle at this mill was a time keeper and at times a fire alarm and this closed in 1954 or 1955.

Bette Herlighey read the verse "Men of the Coopersage Dry Side" by Ed Miller with some names some of us remember. WE all appreciated this fine talk and memories.

We then adjourned and Doris Grant went on with the Auction of items turned in, and all enjoyed this and the lunch which followed. Our next meeting is Nov. 16 at Library Cultural Centre at 2 with topic being on Citizenship or Legislation and we welcome all interested ladies.

SAD TO SEE THEM GO: The trees along the Gull River in Minden have greatly added to the town's picturesque qualities, but 14 of the black willows are either dead or diseased. After a study by the Ministry of Natural Resources, Minden council agreed to remove the trees and was successful in getting infrastructure money for the project. Work, which was tendered out to private contractors, was delayed because of the river's high level but last week the bulldozers were out on the south shore. There will also be improvements to the retaining wall as recommended by the MNR and new trees will replace the ones which had to be removed.

Fall colours and sunny days a bonus

Dorset

Phyllis Briscoe - 766-2237

We have had a beautiful Fall season, with the colour lasting long past Thanksgiving, which is unusual. And the beautiful sunny days were a bonus, coming before whatever we may encounter in November.

In November we can look forward to voting at the municipal election. The various candidates have registered their intention to run for the various seats of government, and are off and running. Prepare to be bombarded with their fliers expounding their qualifications, their promises for the future, and their past accomplishment in the past. Now is the time to make changes if you so desire. May the best people be elected.

We were sorry to hear of the sudden death of Eunice Wright of Minden. Many people associated with the Forest Ranger School (now the Frost Centre) in the 60's will remember the cheerful, smiling girl, Eunice Stamp, who married Truman Wright. Our sympathy to Truman and all family members.

There was a gala time at the Legion in Bracebridge on Friday October 14th when Len and Audrey Whitworth were surprised with a 50th wedding anniversary party. There were about 60 in attendance among them, a number of couples from the Dorset Senior Club.

The Whitworths reside in Toronto but spend six months of the year at their summer home on Long Lake, and are active members of the Dorset Senior Club while here. It was a great party and the couple were genuinely surprised and pleased.

We have had sadness in our village this month. Jack Clayton was buried on October 3rd, with hundreds of mourners attending his funeral and his passing will be mourned for some time to come.

And the community grieves for Paul and Nancy Morley whose 11-year-old grandson passed away on October 3rd, having suffered a long painful illness. Heart felt sympathy is also felt for Josh's mother, Trish, who suffered along with her son. Paul and Nancy suffer for their daughter as well as the loss of their grandson. They all have our sympathy.

H.H. - If a piece of paper gets stuck to a wooden surface such as a table top, pour some salad oil, a few drops at a time and let stand for a while, then rub with a soft cloth. Repeat if necessary.

330 THANK YOU

BILL AND MABEL CLEN-DENNING wish to thank everyone for a wonderful retirement party;
also for the gifts, flowers and well wishes. Special thanks to the Minden O.P.P. guys and gals for their work in organizing this event.

THANKS! THANKS! THANKS!
On behalf of the children of Haliburton County, C.H.A.C.E. Inc. would like to extend a heartfelt thanks to everyone who contributed to our recent Dave's on 35 event: Dave Honderich for his generosity in hosting and contributing to this event and his donation of a pair of gold Leaf tickets (winner: Susie

330 THANK YOU

THANK YOU to my family and good friends and neighbours of Harcourt and surrounding area for their get well wishes, cards and flowers and for their thoughtfulness and good advice while I was in hospital and since my return home.
Anne Meharrie.

THANK YOU to my family and friends who faithfully visited me, for the many prayers of the community, the cards, flowers and gifts of love - my sincere thanks. For the wonderful care given at the Haliburton Hospital by Dr. Bottum, the nurses and staff - a special "thank-you". God has blessed me and may
He bless you all. Mary Salvatori.

A THANK YOU NOTE. Because my dear husband, Oscar Scott was ill quite some time before his death, I cannot thank each person individually for their kind help, cards, phone calls. But please include yourselves when I express thanks to the Minden and Haliburton Hospitals doctors and nurses, and the exceptional caring attention of Dr. Holiday Rhodes. I also thank the VON for their wonderful service to my husband, and especially Helen Barry for being on hand during his last hours. Thanks to all our friends and neighbours who came to help us in our time of need.
Irene Scott and family.
